

Senate Nearing End Of War Cost Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted today to table a proposal that all funds for fighting in Southeast Asia be cut off by June 30, 1971.

Tabled was an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo. He introduced it last week in an effort to force a showdown with administration critics who planned to prolong debate on the war.

By tabling the amendment, known as the "Amendment to End the War," administration critics prevented a straight up or down vote that might have killed it for good.

"By bringing this up out of order, the sponsors of this amendment are confusing the debate, confusing the public and preventing any kind of serious debate that this deserves," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D.

McGovern was one of the original sponsors of the amendment along with Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.

The tabling of Allott's amendment to a military sales bill came as the Senate pointed toward a climax in its eight week debate on Cambodia—a finale that will coincide with a presidential report expected to claim great success for the April invasion of Cambodia.

The Senate votes Tuesday afternoon on the Cooper-Church amendment to cut off funds for U.S. actions in Cambodia after Tuesday.

That date was picked by the amendment's sponsors—Republican John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Idaho Democrat

Frank Church—because Nixon said all American troops would be out of Cambodia by then.

Today's Republican moves were the rear guard of constant efforts by defenders of Nixon Southeast Asia policies to take the edge off Cooper-Church—such as Griffin's try at softening the language.

Allott's proposal to seek an earlier vote than war critics originally sought on the amendment to cut off all funds for the Indochina war after Dec. 31, 1970, had been introduced in hopes it would be defeated now.

Its original sponsors wanted action later this summer so the proposal could serve as another vehicle for extended debate on Vietnam and opposed Allott's maneuvering for a quicker decision.

Today's Senate action was played against these other developments:

—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said in advance of his scheduled meeting with the President at the Western White House that Nixon would make a renewed peace initiative after all U.S. forces are out of Cambodia.

—The President continued preparing a written statement to be issued Tuesday on the Cambodian operation.

—North Vietnam broadcast Sunday a statement that the United States had obtained none of its objectives in Cambodia

Election Turnout Is Heavy

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese officials claimed more than 72 per cent of the voters turned out Sunday for provincial elections despite Viet Cong attacks that killed at least 22 persons and wounded 81.

The highest toll was in the northernmost provinces, where enemy troops mortared Mo Duc, a district town in Quang Ngai Province, killing seven persons and wounding 11 at a polling place.

In some areas, Viet Cong political cadres summoned voters together and warned them not to vote. But government officials claimed 72.6 per cent of the 6.1 million turned out in the 44 provinces, with a heavier participation in rural areas than in the cities.

The claims appeared highly questionable in some areas, however, as witnesses to the voting reported turnouts apparently much below the figures is-

Danforth Suggests Controls

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth called today for a single cabinet level federal agency to handle environmental control efforts.

He said it should help speed development of pollution control devices, establish nationwide pollution standards and develop a new system of tax incentives and penalties to force compliance.

"Nothing short of our existence is at stake," the Republican candidate for U.S. senator said in a speech prepared for the Missouri Association of Nurserymen.

"Certainly a nation which has placed men on the moon can resolve problems that are so much closer to our well being," Danforth said. "Once we have resolved to eliminate pollution, any plan of action that we devise will require a major commitment on the part of us all."

"Voluntary compliance will not work with everyone. For this reason, strict alternatives must also be available. If installation of control devices by, say the industry, would not occur within a time schedule specified for tax incentives, not only would the incentives be withdrawn, but escalation penalties could then be applied."

Later an injunction could be sought "to make it clear that (government) is not in the business of indefinitely licensing people to pollute the environment."

Merchant Payments Are Due

Merchant's license payments are due Tuesday, and any merchant delinquent in purchasing his license will be penalized in accordance with a new ordinance in the Sedalia City Code, according to City Collector Opal Hugelman.

Mrs. Hugelman said Monday the ordinance calls for a penalty of 10 per cent of the cost of the license for the first month of violation. Since merchant's licenses were actually due June 1, according to Mrs. Hugelman, the penalty will become retroactive to that month. A penalty of one per cent will be levied for each following month the license fee remains delinquent.

Mrs. Hugelman said her office informed merchants through the mail in early May that a penalty would be imposed if merchant's license fees became delinquent.

Although the ordinance is a part of the City Code which went into effect Sept. 1, 1968, the City Council did not vote to make the penalty effective until this year, Mrs. Hugelman said.

Mrs. Hugelman said that an exact count of merchants still delinquent Monday was not available, but warned that some merchant's licenses are computed as a percentage of retail sales, creating the possibility of a heavy penalty.

High Court Rules On Jail Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court barred 8 to 0 today the sentencing of defendants, who are unable to pay fines, to jail terms beyond the maximums set by state laws.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, announcing the ruling, said the practice, permitted in most states and by the federal government, is unconstitutional because it discriminates against indigent defendants.

The decision does not overthrow the familiar "30 or 30 days" alternative sentence, although four of the justices said they considered it unconstitutional to jail a poor man under any circumstances simply because he could not pay a fine.

The chief justice grounded his reasoning in opinions on the rights of indigent defendants that were given by the high court under his predecessor, Earl Warren.

In the case at hand, Willie E. Williams of Chicago was convicted in 1967 of petty theft and received the maximum sentence provided by state law: a year in prison and a $500 fine. He served the year, and when he said he could not afford to pay the fine he was sentenced to an additional 101 days.

That is, he would have to "work off" each $5 with an additional day in jail. The extra day was to work off $5 in court costs which he also could not pay.

Burger said Illinois violated Williams' guarantee of "equal protection" by imprisoning him beyond the maximum one-year set by state law. The ceiling cannot be removed, the chief

Attack Methods Of House Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major attack is being mounted in the House against long-standing procedures that shroud much of the legislative process in secrecy.

Most bills are now drafted behind closed committee doors with the votes of members kept secret. Out on the floor members can hide their positions on amendments through nonrecorded votes.

An end to both these practices will be sought by a bipartisan group of members when the House comes to grips with the issue of congressional reform in mid-July.

A bill five years in the making is due to be called up then, giving the House its first chance in 24 years of major reform.

The long period of preparation reflects not so much the diligence of the bill's authors as the reluctance of House leaders to take up so ticklish a subject.

In 1967, after a two-year drafting effort, the Senate passed a reform bill that died of inattention in the House. Now, the push for reform is such that even the leadership is embracing some changes.

However, in the view of many members, the bill coming to the floor falls far short of proposing the changes needed to create public confidence in the House as an effective, responsive legislative body.

Dozens of amendments are expected to be offered in what should be several days of debate and voting, but the main effort is aimed at lifting the veil of secrecy behind which the House operates.

The Democratic Study Group, a loosely knit confederation of moderate and liberal Democrats, is spearheading the campaign but it has gained surprisingly broad support for one of its key proposals.

Nasser, Soviets Confer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser arrived in the Soviet Union today and was expected to discuss with Soviet leaders the new American Middle East peace proposals and his country's defense needs.

The Arab leader's visit came in the wake of statements by Palestinian guerrilla leaders that they would sabotage any effort at reaching a political settlement between Arab governments and Israel.

On the battle fronts, Israeli warplanes raided Jordan and southeast Lebanon Sunday in retaliation for Arab guerrilla attacks that killed one civilian and wounded two civilians and two policemen. The Israeli air force also kept up its day-and-night attacks on Egyptian posts along the Suez Canal.

Supreme Court Prognosticates On School Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, taking the advice of the Justice Department, deferred consideration today of a major school desegregation case from Charlotte, N.C.

Adjourning for the summer, the court declined to rule immediately on the pace of desegregation in Charlotte schools and the significant busing and racial balance questions raised by the dispute.

Civil rights groups had asked for a judgment now or, alternatively that the court agree to an unusual summer session to hear the case.

Last week the Justice Department told the court it would have to eventually resolve the "appropriate remedial standard" for Charlotte and other large urban districts, north and south. But the department also suggested the court await the filing of new desegregation plans for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County District.

The military command in Tel Aviv said its planes attacked Arab guerrilla strongholds on Mt. Hermon in southeast Lebanon for 35 minutes and hit guerrilla bases in Jordan three times Sunday. Large numbers of planes also bombed intermittently along the canal during the day, and the strikes continued through the night.

No Israeli planes were lost, a spokesman said.

The three civilian casualties were in the town of Kiryat Shmona, two miles from the Lebanese border. A 23-year-old worker riding a motorbike was killed and a woman was slightly injured in one rocket barrage, and a man was slightly wounded in a second rocket attack.

The two policemen were wounded by bazookas fired by guerrillas from Lebanon who attacked border police in upper Galilee.

Israeli warplanes made sorties twice Sunday against guerrilla targets in Jordan, a military spokesman said. Between

Surcharge Expires Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The initial installment of a $6.5 billion boost in the public's spending power shows up in workers' paychecks starting next Wednesday when the 5 per cent income surcharge expires and personal income tax exemptions rise.

While acknowledging the buildup of spendable income won't help anti-inflation efforts, administration economists said privately it may be a needed boost for the economy.

"The economy is soft and personal income has begun to decline," one official said. "Dropping the surtax may be just about the right thing to do at the right time, though it wasn't exactly planned that way."

A 10 per cent surtax on personal and corporate incomes was imposed in April 1969, effective for all that year. It added about $9 billion to tax collections for 1969.

The rate was cut to 5 per cent last January under the new tax reform act and the surtax itself set for expiration as of midnight June 30.

On the basis of various federal fiscal moves, purchasing power worth $18.5 billion a year will have been handed consumers and businesses as of July 1 — a boost in Social Security payments, a government pay raise, the phaseout of the surtax and the start of tax reductions.

In the same period, government spending has shifted from surplus to deficit. While tightening credit even more, it is not necessarily inflationary, the administration insists, because there is ample slack in the private economy to absorb the flow of federal dollars.

Besides the elimination of the surtax, July brings the first major benefits of the tax relief voted by Congress in December.

This includes an increase in the personal income tax exemption from $600 to $650 a person. In subsequent years it will rise to $750. The change will be built into the withholding schedules, along with a cut in the tax liabilities of lower-income families through a new low-income allowance.

The gains in immediately disposable income should offset the weakness of personal income, which turned downward in May for the first time since 1965.

Irish Violence Subsides Today

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Violence subsided in Northern Ireland today. Britain's Cabinet went into emergency session in London and defense officials there moved to dispatch even more troops to help stop religious fighting.

The death today in a hospital of a man brought to six the toll of dead from fighting between Roman Catholics and Protestants over the weekend. More than 200 other persons have been injured.

Soldiers with orders to shoot armed civilians on sight patrolled rubble-strewn sections of Belfast.

Violence developed in the independent Irish Republic in the south when Irish raiders threw gasoline bombs into British railroad offices and a British veterans' organization building in Cork.

That republic's foreign minister Patrick Hillier, flew to London to discuss the crisis with the British foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

There was considerably less violence Sunday night as the British government rushed more troops in and emergency measures were proclaimed. Another 40 persons were injured in street fights, an explosion started a fire at an oil depot, but only one shooting was reported — a shotgun blast that wounded two soldiers slightly.

Police reported all quiet by 4 a.m.

Violence began Friday night over the jailing of Bernadette Devlin, the fiery young Roman Catholic leader sentenced to six months in prison for leading anti-Protestant riots last summer. The bloodiest toll came in

Troops Leave Cambodia on Schedule

SAIGON — (AP) — The last American combat troops in Cambodia pulled back into South Vietnam this afternoon, in effect completing the U.S. withdrawal one day ahead of President Nixon's deadline.

Still in Cambodia but scheduled to leave by midnight Tuesday were a handful of American advisors to some of the 39,000 South Vietnamese troops also still there. Although these Americans also are being pulled out, the South Vietnamese will keep forces beyond the border for an indefinite period to bolster the shaky government of Premier Lon Nol.

Only very light contact was reported as the last mud-caked 1,800 men of the 1st Air Cavalry Division walked or flew across the border north of Saigon, closing out the 60-day drive into enemy munitions and supply dumps that Nixon has called the "most successful" operation of the Vietnam war.

Meanwhile, Premier Lon Nol of Cambodia said in Phnom Penh that he hoped Nixon would send U.S. troops back into his country if his government's military situation deteriorated further.

Nol made clear at a news conference that U.S. air forces have been giving tactical air support to Cambodian ground troops and said the Pentagon had assured him this would continue after June 30.

U.S. officials contend that all U.S. air attacks in Cambodia have been against enemy supply lines, and Defense Secretary

Melvin R. Laird said last Friday that this bombing would continue after June 30. But Laird refused to say whether American planes would also provide support for Cambodian troops, commenting: "I don't believe that it's good practice ... to give flat answers on operational orders as far as the future is concerned."

The U.S. Command announced that no Americans were killed in either South Vietnam or Cambodia in the 24-hour period ending at midnight Sunday, the first time this had occurred since last Christmas Day when a cease-fire was in effect. But early today three Americans were killed and 11 wounded in a North Vietnamese attack on a night camp of the 5th Mechanized Division's 1st Brigade just south of the Demilitarized zone. The command said two of the enemy were killed.

Action elsewhere was light and scattered, with U.S. forces reporting at least 14 wounded, two of them in Cambodia.

South Vietnamese forces reported several clashes with 45 North Vietnamese killed and two captured in a fight two miles south of the Demilitarized zone.

The war was going no better for the Cambodian army today than it has in weeks, but it also was going no worse. The Cambodian High Command's spokesman told newsmen in Phnom Penh the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese had made ground assaults on the major arms depot at Long Vek, 23 miles north of Phnom Penh, and had fired mortars at government positions in the Siem Reap-Angkor area.

The Long Vek depot has been under siege for five days, but the spokesman said much of the stores had been removed before the first attack. He said an AC47 gunship plane, apparently either South Vietnamese or American, helped break up the attacks early today.

The spokesman termed the mortar fire in the Siem Reap-Angkor area harassment. But other reports said it might be the beginning of a new Communist attempt to drive the government forces from Siem Reap, one of the chief government positions in northwest Cambodia. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese reportedly have already occupied the famed temple ruins at Angkor, six miles north of Siem Reap, and the government says it will not attack them there because it does not want to damage the ruins.

The High Command said Kompong Thom and Kompong Cham 80 miles north and 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, also were attacked Sunday night, but the actions appeared to be only probes.

In Laos, Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma replied to a new Pathet Lao peace proposal termed by informants "slightly more conciliatory" than previous Pathet Lao offers.

Government sources declined to disclose the contents of the letter, a reply to a proposal sent June 12, but diplomatic sources said the offer from Pathet Lao chief Prince Souphanouvong modified an earlier demand for complete and unconditional halt of American bombing raids against Pathet Lao positions.

Drowning Claims Father and Son

TROY, Mo. (AP) — A father and son from the St. Louis area drowned in Lincoln Lake Sunday.

Authorities said John J. Kaupen, 19, apparently was attempting to swim across the 60-acre lake in Cuivre River State Park when he suffered a seizure and went under.

federation of moderate and liberal Democrats, is spearheading the campaign but it has gained surprisingly broad support for one of its key proposals.

This calls for recording the names of members when they walk up the aisle of the House chamber to vote on an amendment. At present they are counted, but remain anonymous.

Under this system, members frequently vote differently than they would if put on record, and their constituents are none the wiser.

Chimpanzee Has Day At Symphony

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pierre, an 8-year-old resident of the St. Louis Zoo, took his turn on the podium as director of the St. Louis Symphony and proved to be less than an artistic success.

The chimpanzee, star of an animal cast which accompanied the world premiere of composer Peter Schickele's opus, "A Zoo Called Earth," was more interested in the audience sprawled on the lawn behind the zoo's reptile house.

He waved his baton ineffectively, then was given an assist by an associate conductor in leading a rendition of "Happy Birthday" in behalf of a 7-year-old girl in the audience.

"Many believe that conducting is an art which cannot be taught, at least not to chimps," Orchestra Manager James Cain said.

An audience of about 5,000 at the Forest Park concert seemed to interest Pierre more than the musicians.

Appearing in a parade across the grassy stage were the zoo's baby elephant, a boa constrictor wrapped around its keeper and a tiger cub, an orangutan and a kangaroo in carts.

Schickele, a New Yorker, who composed the score for "Oh, Calcutta," told the audience, "We expect to get many more years of enjoyment on the planet you call earth ... and which we call a zoo."

With that, a hissing noise from the orchestra accompanied an imaginary blast-off back to another planet.

and was claiming an "imaginary victory."

—Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House Republican leader, said the Cambodian incursion had been successful "far beyond expectations" and he personally thought it might even lead to an accelerated withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. He also said the House might knock out the Cooper-Church amendment even if the Senate passed it.

—Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., said in a Senate speech prepared for today he had suggested to the White House 10 days ago creation of "fire-free" no-combat zones in South Vietnam as a peace initiative. He told newsmen he had received no response but thought such an idea was under consideration.

—In another speech prepared for today, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., suggested Borneo might be a good place to send pro-U.S. South Vietnamese in the event of a Communist takeover of their country.

12 hours of fighting Saturday night as Catholics and Protestants fought each other and the steel-helmeted troops with rocks, bottles and gasoline bombs, and troops and snipers exchanged gunfire. Five civilians were killed and 161 civilians and soldiers were injured.

Provincial Premier James Chichester-Clark declared that his government was facing an attempted revolution. He ordered emergency measures into force, including a partial curfew and early closing of bars. He also promised new laws to deal with rioters but ruled out martial law for the time being.

"All civilians carrying firearms or using firearms in any way whatsoever are liable to be shot without warning," said Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, commander of British forces in Northern Ireland.

Britain's new Conservative prime minister, Edward Heath, dispatched another 3,000 troops to Northern Ireland, bringing the total to 11,350.

Buying Some Cosmetics Is Mental Health Hazard

NEW YORK (AP) — CAUTION: Buying cosmetics for a teen-age daughter may be hazardous to your mental health. I discovered this the other day when I volunteered to pick up my college coed's favorite products at a plush local salon. Along with the makeup I got a shakeup—of my ego.

Displayed in a setting befitting the crown jewels are cleansers, moisturizers, fresheners, brighteners, dullers, blushers, stabilizers, foundations, finishes, oils, creams and powders.

Somewhat overawed by the array of potions and lotions and by the elegant lady who presided over their commercial distribution, I nervously consulted my list. The dispenser of bottled beauty nodded encouragingly as she selected the called-for items.

"Have you thought of trying our camouflage cream?" she suggested. "And," she added delicately, "perhaps you should consider our special youth lotion. A stitch in time, you know."

"Oh, these are not for me," I volunteered. "They're for my daughter who's away at school. I don't use anything but lipstick and eyebrow pencil."

Her own perfectly penciled brows shot up in horror and a frown pulled down the corners of her carefully contoured lips.

"No makeup!" she exclaimed in refined accents of disbelief. "Come now, we mothers mustn't let our daughters get ahead of us. Makeup would do wonders for you."

She regarded me critically. "The features are good," she concluded, "but we must accent them. You're like a picture without a frame. Let me make you up—you'll see how we can improve you with a little of this and that."

Since even locating my mouth for coffee-drinking purposes is a major accomplishment for the first couple of hours after I get up, performing any task requiring more coordination than that is beyond hope. I firmly declined.

But she didn't give up that easily.

"At least take our little pamphlet and read how we can help you."

Well, I've been reading but I haven't figured out how I'd manage to get all the glamor on before it was time to take it off again.

I'm supposed to start with a foam cleaner, to open the pores, followed by a fresener to close them; then a concealing base that will cover them so you can't see whether they're open or closed. A special lightener follows to hide the circles and shadows under the eyes. Atop this goes a blusher for a youthful glow, and if my fingertips are still in working order there's a liquid powder, over which goes a finisher.

I'm afraid I'll just have to remain my unadorned self until somebody comes up with a way of congealing all these layers of makeup into a mask that can be put on and taken off like a wig.

Police, Firemen Seek Hikes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Spokesmen for Kansas City police and firemen say they are going to join in pushing for wage increases.

About 800 members of the Kansas City Police Officers Association and International Association of Firefighters Local 42 held meetings Saturday and Sunday. Six firemen and six policemen were named to a steering committee.

"There will be some action on our part this week," said Chuck Williams, president of the police association, "but I am not at liberty to say what action will be taken."

Under state law neither group is allowed to strike.

Williams said the two meetings resulted in demands for an immediate 10 per cent wage increase for police; time and one-half overtime pay for police, and wage parity between firemen and some city professional employees.

"We feel," Williams said, "that the city has the money, or can acquire the money, to give us a decent living...We sincerely hope they'll make the right decision, or we'll be compelled to make some decisions."

During a testimonial dinner for Lt. Gov. William S. Morris Saturday night, about 150 off-duty firemen and policemen marched quietly into the dining hall and presented their demands to Morris.

Ann Landers

Must Make Move With Whole Family

Dear Ann Landers: Two weeks ago my husband was offered a beautiful promotion. It means we will have to move from Louisville to Omaha by September 1. We love Louisville, but how well I remember that we hated to leave St. Louis to move here. And we loved Evansville before that. It's been the story of my life.

Our 13-year-old daughter hasn't stopped crying since her father told her about the upcoming transfer. Joyce hasn't eaten enough to keep a bird alive. She is begging us to let her live with her best friend's family for one year — until she is ready to enter high school. Then she will join us in Omaha.

Joyce has an 11-year-old sister, Molly, who is looking forward to the move, although she has many friends here. Molly is an 'A' student, which Joyce is not.

I don't know how much longer I can put up with Joyce's moaning around the house and crying. Her best friend's mother has telephoned me to say Joyce is welcome to stay with them for a year and she hopes I say yes because her daughter has been crying, too. Please advise. — Mrs. Van Oriented

Dear Mrs.: Someone should tell those two girls to turn off the waterworks. They are wasting the natural resources. I hope you won't cave in and let Joyce have her way. A 13-year-old girl belongs with her family. And Omaha isn't exactly Outer Mongolia. There are good schools and friendly people there.

The challenge of making a place for herself in a new city will be a healthy experience for

Judge Is Cleared

FENTON, Mo. (AP) — The shooting death of a Richard Adams, 24, St. Louis, by a Peerless Park Community Judge who claimed the victim was attempting a holdup was ruled as justifiable homicide Sunday.

Thomas Ward Jr., 38, told Fenton police he shot Adams after Adams confronted him with a pistol on Interstate highway 44 near here.

Joyce. Don't allow her to evade it.

Dear Ann Landers: You are right most of the time but when you are wrong — oh baby, are you wrong! I refer to your comment to "Can't Get A Word In Edgewise." You said a person faced with a non-stop talker should end a senseless conversation by frankly saying it's time to stop. Obviously you have never lived in Ottawa, Canada.

All the women up here are born talking and they don't let up until a physician declares them officially dead. They learn from their mothers (who learned from THEIR mothers) the skillful act of tacking "so" or "and" or "but" to the end of every sentence. This enables them to hold the floor indefinitely.

I have listened to these non-stop talkers all my life and I can tell you there is no polite way to get in your say. I learned long ago, if you live in Ottawa, manners be damned. The only way to fight these females is to break in when they come up for air. Even then you can't wait forever because in addition to having superb voices they have fantastic lungs and can go without breathing for incredible periods of time. (They could all swim the English Channel.)

So please, Ann Landers, when you hand out advice, be aware that the advice that works in Chicago might not work in Ottawa. The yakky yak of the women up here is indeed a difficulty which I'm sure is not found elsewhere on the North American continent. What we need is special help, not support for the loquacious females who will be thrilled when they see that Ann Landers says it is impolite to interrupt. — Capital O

Dear Cap: I have known plenty of women who have never left the U.S. who are incessant talkers, so please get it out of your head that Ottawa has a corner on this market because it just isn't true nor is it fair to make a regional problem out of what is in reality a human weakness and I thank you for writing.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. (C) 1970. Publishers-Hall Syndicate

Black Journalists Form Organization

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — About 50 black journalists concluded a three-day meeting Sunday by forming the National organization of Black Media Workers.

James Saunders, information officer for Lincoln University where the meeting was held, said the sessions were closed to the press.

Saunders said he understood the group adopted a resolution supporting Earl Caldwell, a New York Times newsman who was found guilty of civil contempt June 5 by a federal judge. Caldwell had refused to turn over his notes to a grand jury investigating the Panthers.

Caldwell spoke at the organizational meeting. Saunders said.

Greek architecture has been employed for many public buildings in Nashville, Tenn. It is known as the "Athens of the South."

LYOUD JEWELLEN
Area Farm Manager

Grain kernels are living organisms that require air to breathe. That's why grain in storage requires aeration, even though it has been properly dried.

Aeration cools stored grain by moving air through the grain mass using a fan and air duct or perforated floor. It is not a drying method. Aeration is used to prevent grain spoilage after it has been dried, to the desired moisture level. Aeration procedure should be followed on all bins holding more than 2,000 bushels or in bins with grain more than eight feet deep.

Aeration equipment does not insure you completely against grain going out of condition. If fines and foreign material are not cleaned out in advance of storage, or at least well distributed in the bin, "hot spots" can still cause trouble.

Start running aeration fans as grain goes into storage to cool it down and run the fans any time outside temperature is at least 10 to 15 degrees cooler than the grain. Grain should be down to 35 to 40 degrees by late November. Hold it there until late March.

Don't operate fans when temperature is under 30 degrees or the grain may freeze and when it thaws spoilage may occur. As spring arrives, grain stored in large bins should be warmed 5 to 10 degrees each month until it reaches about 70 degrees. It is advisable to aerate on fair days when air temperature is 5 to 10 degrees warmer than the grain.

Aeration fans should pull air down through the grain. This exhausts warm, moist air from the bottom of the bin where it is warmest. If air is pushed upward, the warm front will contact the cold surface and condensation will occur on the upper or top layer of grain causing spoilage.

Ground Hogs
Ground hogs can become a costly nuisance, especially in clover and alfalfa fields. The most effective control of the culprits comes from calcium cyanide dust or flakes.

The dust, which he says probably works the best, can be dispersed in the ground hog den with a foot pump duster. All holes should be blocked with sod. Previously undetected holes can be located by gas emissions.

Another method of applying calcium cyanide is to place a heaping tablespoon of dust in one pile as deep into the den as possible. Then all entrances should be blocked with sod, taking care not to cover the dust with soil.

Calcium cyanide can be purchased at most feed stores. It gives off a deadly gas and should be handled with extreme care, following instructions on the label.

For sportsmen, the most desirable method of eradication may be distributing lead to the individual animals with a rifle.

Potato Harvest

In some years, and with some varieties of potatoes, the foliage does not die down in early to mid-July. If we have reasonably cool weather (night temperatures below 75) we might leave the potatoes in the ground a little longer. If it is hot weather during mid-July, even though the vines haven't died down, it might be the best policy to dig the potatoes.

This is really a judgment decision on your part.

Temperatures, condition of the vines and perhaps other factors will enter into your decision. But usually there is no advantage in leaving potatoes in the ground after mid-July.

Now, when digging potatoes, use care! Every bruise, every gouge or puncture can mean trouble with rotting and decay. So handle with care! Use canvas gloves. Place potatoes in containers like you would place eggs in a carton.

Remove potatoes from exposure to sunlight or any bright light, immediately after harvest. Potatoes should preferably be spread out in a single layer in a covered place, away from strong light, but in good ventilation. During this period of three or four days, the potatoes will "set" the skins and become "storage acclimated" so to speak.

During this period it would be advisable to remove all potatoes that show damage from insects, diseases or mechanical injury. Place these damaged potatoes in separate containers and consume these first.

After this pre-storage treatment, place potatoes carefully in their storage containers and get them in as cool a place as is possible. This is usually hard to find in Missouri in the middle of July.

Again, let me emphasize that potatoes need to be stored in an area where there is no light or where the light is subdued. Exposure of potato tubers to light will cause the area just under the skin to turn green. The green is harmless chlorophyll, but associated with the chlorophyll is a material called solanine. This material is toxic and can make a person quite ill.

Spider Mites
With warmer temperatures and under drying conditions these infestations should increase rather rapidly. Sprays containing dicofol (Kelthane) or malathion should aid in controlling this pest.

Complete coverage of the plants is necessary for good control. Two applications at seven to 10 day intervals may be needed. Do not use malathion on canary junipers.

July 1st Deadline To Make Reports

Chairman of the Pettis County ASC Committee, Samuel Hieronymus, said today that wheat and feed grain payments will be made to farmers who have completed reporting of wheat and feed grain and diverted acres on July 1.

In order to receive payments, producers will have to come to the Pettis County ASCS Office and sign final certification stating that any weeds on their diverted acres have been mowed or in some way brought under control and will be kept under control.

"This means," said Hieronymus, "that if a producer mows the weeds on diverted acres and then picks up his check the first week in July he may well have to mow these same diverted acres again in August in order to keep the weeds under control."

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Land Law Review Commission report issued last week includes a recommendation for selling government-owned land once farmed unsuccessfully by thousands of families who learned too late the hard lessons of drought and economic depression.

The commission report, a comprehensive review of public land policy, says generally that government-owned land should be sold only when there is a market demand for it and then only for a fair price.

About one-third of the U.S. land area or more than 755 million acres is government owned. Most of it is in forests and livestock ranges, and the commission says most of these vast areas would not be suitable for intensive agriculture or cropping.

"On the other hand," the report said, "we find no good reason why lands purchased by the federal government for so-called land utilization projects, many of which now make up the national grasslands, should not be made available for intensive agriculture."

Most of the land so referred to involves millions of acres purchased during the "dust bowl" era of the 1930s.

"The argument is sometimes made that public lands, particularly those purchased by the federal government when they were in a rundown and eroded condition, should not be farmed again," the report said.

"It is said that the land would be over-used and would become rundown and eroded. We do not find this to be a substantial argument."

The commission said conservation programs carried out with federal assistance since the 1930s are sufficient insurance against the dust bowl conditions occurring again.

Commissioner Robert E. Clark, Arizona University law professor dissented with the recommendation that this land be returned to farming "for the very reasons" the government bought it in the first place.

An Agriculture Department

report written five years ago by economist H. H. Wooten says the economic depression of the late 1920s and early 1930s helped cause a migration from cities to the countryside as unemployment rose and hard times set in.

The additional people seeking havens in agriculture merely intensified the problems of established farmers, Wooten said.

"Farm foreclosures multiplied, tax delinquencies increased, farm incomes dwindled, and in many areas the land resources were damaged by drought, floods, erosion, poor cultivation practices and neglect.

"It became increasingly evident," Wooten said, "that thousands of farm families had long been living in poverty on poor land, and that the depression and weather were merely aggravating their problems."

The so-called "land utilization" program involved government purchases of about $11.3 million acres held by 37,000 farmers for a total cost of $47.5 million or an average of less than $5 an acre, according to Agriculture Department records.

Nitrogen Supplements Keep Plants Growing

Apply a nitrogen side dressing to keep vegetables growing vigorously this summer. A side dressing is not essential for all vegetables, but most respond well to it.

Use fertilizers such as ammonium nitrate, urea or ammonium sulfate to supply plants with nitrogen. Complete fertilizers may also be used. However, only the nitrogen is really needed.

A side dressing for most plants can be applied as ammonium nitrate. Use about one pound per 100 feet of row. Urea at the same rate, can also be used. Use ammonium sulfate at a slightly higher rate — about 1½ pounds per 100 feet of row.

Correct amount of a complete fertilizer will vary with the formulation. Usual variation is from three to five pounds per 100 feet of row. Be careful not to overfertilize. It is easy to burn young, tender roots with heavy fertilization.

Sprinkle fertilizer along the row or around plants; do not get it on leaves. Water fertilizer in if rain is not likely soon.

Nitrogen compounds are very soluble and quickly leach into the soil. If you can't weigh material, figure one pint of ammonium nitrate or ammonium sulfate equals one pound.

Tomatoes respond well to nitrogen sidedressing. Too much nitrogen early in the season causes plants to produce many leaves and fruit late.

Apply the first side dressing to tomatoes about one to two weeks before the first tomato ripens. Follow this with another side dressing about two weeks after the first tomato has ripened. Apply a third dressing about one month later.

Cucumber and cantaloupe should have a dressing about one week after blossoming begins. Do not apply a side dressing to watermelon or sweet potatoes. Too much nitrogen on them will reduce yield and lower crop quality.

Sweet corn should receive a side dressing when plants are about eight to ten inches tall and again about one week after tassels appear. Generally, side dressing on fruiting plants is done after flowering and when some fruits have set. This applies to plants such as peppers, eggplants, beans, and peas.

On plants such as cabbage, cauliflower or broccoli, sidedressing should be done about three weeks after plants are set in the field.

Plants such as spinach, kale or turnip greens that may be seeded directly should have a side dressing when they are about one-third grown. Do not sidedress root crops such as carrots, beets and turnips.

Fair Queen To Be Judged on Talent

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Talent ability will be a requisite for girls competing in the Queen of Fairs Contest at the 1970 Missouri State Fair in Sedalia, reports the Missouri Association of Fairs, sponsors of the contest.

Contestants, who must be 18 years of age by August 20 of this year and legal residents of Missouri, will also be judged on grooming, poise and appearance in a ballroom gown.

The reason talent is included in the requirements, the sponsors explain, is because of the great number of entries this year and the need for increased competition to aid judges in making their choices.

The Queen will be crowned at special ceremonies to be conducted on Sunday evening, August 23, and will move into the Queen's Suite in the Administration Building on the Fairgrounds following the coronation.

The newly crowned Queen will be required to remain in Sedalia until the end of the State Fair on August 30 and will make frequent appearances at special events and programs during the annual Fair.

SHOULDER PAIN

By Carl J. Hamilton, D.C.

The shoulder is a joint in which several bones, ligaments, and many muscles are involved. This joint has the greatest range of motion of any joint in the body and for that reason is subject to injury more often. If the shoulder joint should become painful and sore, you might as well quit work for any further action will surely make it worse.

Working at high speed for long hours makes nerves taut and results in tired muscles to such an extent the whole framework of the body finally sags, creating nerve pressure on delicate nerve fibers where they protrude from the spinal column. Resistance to muscles and tendons in the shoulder is lowered and shoulder pains result.

Pain is nature's warning signal that there is something wrong in the body mechanism. It is an unpleasant sensation caused by sensory nerve stimulation and often accompanied by disturbances of raw autonomic nerves which power practically all of the important organs of the body.

The networks of nerves which coordinate movements of the shoulder and arms are called the Brachial Plexus. These nerves extend from the upper part of the spinal column at the neck and shoulders, supplying vital nerve energy from the brain to the shoulder muscles.

Without the normal supply of this vital nerve energy, no sprain, infection, or torn muscle can heal. No medication or sedative can eliminate the cause. The only answer is to restore this life-giving nerve energy to the affected parts, allowing the healing process of nature to proceed unhindered.

Scientific chiropractic spinal adjustments get to the basic trouble rather than merely treating the effects.

Chiropractic "relieves" pressure on nerve channels by correcting displaced vertebrae and restoring normal nerve function. Inflammation is reduced from the beginning, nature's healing process begins, and pain in the shoulder is gradually brought to an end.

Don't wait in the hope that the pain will vanish of itself. Consult your chiropractor. He is trained to find and correct nerve interference by gentle spinal adjustments, allowing all muscles and organs to regain their full supply of vital nerve energy correcting the cause of shoulder pain.

Only a Chiropractor can tell if you are a chiropractic case. A Doctor of Chiropractic cannot accept all cases but does help almost all he accepts.

Preminger Talks About Star Image

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's time for some straight talk about that much maligned institution: The star system. The talker: Otto Preminger.

The word has been passed around that the star system is dead in films, that actors who were getting a million dollars a picture last year are now lining up for unemployment insurance. Producer-director Preminger is reputed to be a tiger who chomps on actors for hors d'oeuvres. Hence you might expect him to kick the star system into the freshly dug grave. He didn't. Not exactly.

"Would I pay an actor a million dollars a picture?" he mused in his palatial Paramount office. "Of course not. But then, I don't think there are any actors asking for a million dollars—this year."

"Myself, I don't believe in stars. Perhaps the star system meant something in the years when certain personalities had their own followings. Like Clark Gable. It is said that the only pictures of his that didn't make money were the ones he did with Myrna Loy about Ireland 'Parnell' and the last one, with Marilyn Monroe 'The Misfits'. But now there is no star that can guarantee a picture's success. Yet the star system has been preserved—until now—by producers who felt they needed stars for protection."

"If the picture's a flop, the producer can excuse his own stupidity by saying, 'Look, I had Elizabeth Taylor in it; what else could I do?'"

Preminger has hired Paul Newman, Frank Sinatra, Kim Novak and dozens of other stars for his films, and he says he would do so again.

"After all, stars become stars because they have certain qualities. Most of them are good actors, or at least learn to give a good performance. A star name in the right part can add value to a film."

For his latest film, "Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon," Preminger went the unknown route. Well, almost.

He cast Liza Minnelli in the female lead at a time when she was a star in night clubs and television only. "The Sterile Cuckoo" hadn't been released yet. He picked Ken Howard from "1776" and James Coco from off-Broadway. Stage director Robert Moore wanted to observe on the set; Preminger cast him as one of the leads instead.

The combination appears to have worked. "Junie Moon" has received the best reviews of any Preminger film in recent years. His description of it: "The story of members of three minority groups—the young, the poor and the crippled—and their demand for the right to life."

Preminger conceded that the film industry ("I hate that term—do they call the stage 'theater industry'?" he is suffering a malaise. But he doesn't agree with the panic talk.

Disorderly Language

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Daniel Tierney, 17, of Nashua, has been fined $50 on a disorderly conduct charge because he called a policeman a pig.

District Judge William O'Neil also told the teenager: "The court takes a dim view of referring to police officers in the manner in which you did. Someday when you're a little older you'll probably feel the same way as the court. You are lucky to get off with a $50 fine."

Tierney reportedly was in a coffee shop parking lot when a policeman carrying a cup of coffee walked by. The youth reportedly said to him: "Hey pig, you got a coffee for yourself, but not for your buddy, you pig."

Belfast Parade Halted

The traditional parade of the staunch Protestant "Orangemen," about 2,500 strong, is halted in Belfast recently, by stonethrowing Roman Catholics, enraged by the jailing of Bernadette Devlin, Catholic civil rights leader and Britain's youngest member of Parliament.

The Orangemen attempted to continue their march through this largely Catholic area, but Catholic reinforcements arrived and dispersed the parade with clubs, bricks and bombs.

Honor America Day Planned For July 4

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is, its sponsors say, going to be just a plain Fourth of July celebration, like in the old days, with fireworks, a speech, some prayers, some band music, some entertainment and a grand display of Old Glory.

Except that in 1970 America, especially in Washington, especially when it's designated "Honor America Day," there will be bigger fireworks, a most important speaker, more music and entertainment and more flags than Grandma ever saw on the town square. And more people.

Just the motive behind an Honor America Day is suspect in the quarters that have used the same arena—the area of Washington's proudest monuments—to proclaim their dissent, and so this particular Fourth of July celebration also is more controversial than most preceding it in the 194 years since America's birth.

But the Honor America Day committee made it plain the only speech will be by evangelist Billy Graham and none of the day will be political.

"Everybody included in this program is going to be interested in building up America to make people appreciate the great joy of being an American citizen," said J. Willard Marriott, chairman of the event, a restaurant-motel magnate and good friend of President Nixon.

Honor America Day's entertainment will be headlined by Bob Hope and the big-name show people.

The day will begin at a patriotic-religious service at the Lincoln Memorial with a speech by Graham, benedictions by ministers of different faiths, and a parade of flags to the Ellipse, the grassy area south of the White House.

President Nixon is in San Clemente, Calif., and won't come back for Honor America Day. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's plans haven't been announced, but Marriott says he will not be a speaker.

In the afternoon there will be activities on the long mall between the Lincoln Memorial and the Capitol.

Police say the crowd estimates have ranged to a half million people and they are prepared for a peaceful crowd.

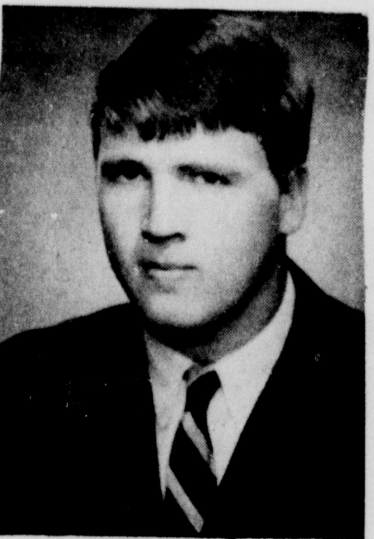

The big show is in the evening near the Washington Monument, climaxed by a half-hour fireworks display, traditionally a spectacular one, winding up with a blaze of floodlights over the reflecting pool, like red, white and blue arches stabbing into the sky.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, an honorary chairman of the day, said the celebration pays homage to the things that have made the nation great—freedom, equality, opportunity, diversity and the spirit of sacrifice.

"But we also rededicate ourselves to the responsibilities of America for the unfinished tasks ahead."

"We do not insist that we are perfect. But we must continue to strive for perfection as long as there is an American nation. For only by honoring America's promise do we honor America itself."

Ted Hotchkiss, a college student from the St. Louis area, has been named Central Missouri field worker for John C. Danforth, Republican Senate candidate. Hotchkiss will live in Jefferson City during the summer, and will work in Pettis, Saline, Morgan, Moniteau and Cooper Counties, among others.

Justice Department Says War on Pot Is Working

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department says it is highly pleased with initial results of "Operation Cooperation," the joint U.S.-Mexican drive to destroy opium poppies and marijuana in Mexico and catch those who trade in the illicit drugs.

Citing figures from a report to be published later this week, Bob Funest of the department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs listed some examples of arrests due to the two-country cooperation:

—In Mexicali, Mexican police arrested a "major trafficker" as he attempted to deliver one ton of marijuana to a BNDD undercover agent.

—In Guadalajara, the Mexican army seized five tons of marijuana and arrested 15 U.S. citizens alleged to have arranged to smuggle it into this country.

—In Jalisco, BNDD agents helped when Mexican police captured a fully equipped heroin laboratory, arrested three persons and seized 225 grams of pure heroin.

Other examples involved arrests in New York City, Las Vegas, California and Tucson, Ariz., and elsewhere.

In addition, the Mexican government wiped out 5,745 acres of poppies and 44 tons of marijuana in a drive last spring, Funest said.

Operation Cooperation started last fall after an earlier anti-drug drive — "Operation Intercept"—soured U.S.-Mexican relations by creating big jam-ups at U.S. Customs points that discouraged tourism and inconvenienced Mexicans working in the United States.

Under Operation Cooperation, the United States this week is sending Mexico three light aircraft and five radio-equipped helicopters seating five persons.

They are valued at a total $815,000.

In addition, the Mexican government will receive $15,000 for remote sensing experiments aimed at detecting opium poppies and marijuana in their rolling hills. Another $35,000 will go for equipment to eradicate the poppies and other drug-yielding plants.

Cooperative training programs are planned to widen the pool of people able to detect and eradicate the plants and maintain the specialized equipment. Also, the U.S. Customs Bureau as of June 1 had strengthened its Mexico and Canadian border staffs by 900 men.

Economic Report Strikes Dismal Tones in America

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — At mid-year the economy of the United States is suffering from symptoms of fatigue and overindulgence, and while dutiful assurances from Washington might tranquilize fears they cannot smother facts.

Unemployment is growing more than was expected, sales are sluggish, production is off and prices are rising steeply. Figuratively speaking, the red lights are flashing and the dials on statistical indicators are pointing down.

By this time, it is generally believed, some of those dials should have been turning up. But the failure of expectations to be realized has become chronic and is turning some economists into pessimists.

The administration, however, maintains that its game plan is about as plotted, and that while the layman may not be able to detect the changing conditions, the more sophisticated analysts can see an upturn coming very soon.

It isn't only statistics that disturb the disbelievers and suggest to them that the problems of the economy may be more than temporary. Some ominous signs have appeared.

The Penn Central Railroad bankruptcy reorganization seems to be the greatest of them. Unable to meet its bills, the big railroad was forced to file for reorganization under Section 77 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Other companies, some of them associated with the glamor-growth syndrome of the late 1960s, have met similar fates. And more companies, laden with debts, are trying to work without sufficient immediate cash.

Investors are so suspicious that companies may be having liquidity crises that trading in the stock of Chrysler Corp. was delayed a good part of one day by an influx of sell orders. Chrysler issued a statement saying it was liquid, that it had assets readily convertible to cash. But the need to issue such a statement was considered noteworthy.

Lockheed Aircraft has had to appeal to the federal government for payment on some contracts in which its money is tied up. And two other aerospace companies, McDonnell Douglas and North American Rockwell, have had to suspend supplemental unemployment benefits to laid-off workers.

On Wall Street, the financial condition of many brokerage houses is dismal, lending urgency to plans for a federally backed insurance program to protect investors from the insolvency of their brokers.

Internationally, the United States is still running a deficit in its payments to other nations, but this problem has been forced to the rear, temporarily, by domestic problems. It could, however, mean more pressure on the dollar later in the year.

Statistics don't tell the full story either of the decay in the physical plant of America: the local road and sewer jobs postponed for lack of funds or because of high interest rates; the rotten housing that isn't being replaced because the mortgage markets have been depleted of funds.

Insurance Coverage Extended

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue Cross of Greater New York will extend coverage for hospital abortions to include single women and dependent children when the state's new abortion law becomes effective next Wednesday.

Blue Cross contracts are now worded to allow only married women with family contracts to have abortions.

The policy switch, announced Friday, will provide payments ranging from $80 to $150, depending on the type of contract.

Meanwhile, Blue Shield which pays for doctors' services is expected to decide at a July 30 meeting to pay doctors' fees of $50 to $100 for abortions.

The announcement of the Blue Cross payment plan coincided with authorization granted to city hospitals to perform abortions on girls aged 17 or more, with or without parental consent, providing the girl is married, or self-supporting and living away from her parents.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

Since there is a great move in our country to destroy God's word and all form of religion, we should wake up to the fact that we need to begin to do more each day to restore faith in the Bible. We, of the 14th and Stewart Church of Christ, urge you to come to our services where we stress the Study of the Bible, and urge people to return to it for complete guidance of their lives. The Bible is going to be opened before us when we stand before the Judgment of God. We will have to give an account of how we have treated that word and how we have lived here with respect to its teaching. Why not begin to make preparations to live here so that you can live with God in eternity. Become a New Testament Christian and worship with us where we remember the Lord every week by partaking of the Lord's Supper.

The problems are not new. They have developed for years and are now serious illnesses because medication wasn't used in time. There were too many other things to do, among them, fighting a war.

The Nixon administration sees a key to all these problems in attacking inflation. It is dedicated to the proposition that the ills troubling the economy have a common source in that financial malady.

At midyear the big economic question is this: Is the administration's anti-inflation program working? Will results be forthcoming from its use of fiscal and monetary policy?

Or, somehow, will the forces of inflation continue to defy the measures so far used: cutbacks in federal spending and, until recently, a tight clamp on the money flows from the Federal Reserve?

Pressure has been rising for the administration to step into the marketplace with restraints—even a freeze—on wages, prices and some forms of credit.

The conflicting opinions are scheduled to be highly publicized during the next few weeks. On July 8 the Joint Economic Committee of Congress will begin hearings on just these questions.

Grotesque 'Credit Card'

Most comment on the Supreme Court's ruling broadening the definition of a conscientious objector to include those who do not believe in a God or adhere to any formal system of religion has centered not on the justice of the decision but on the possible inconvenience it may cause.

It is true that it may be difficult to judge the sincerity of someone who bases his objection to war on personal beliefs rather than the strictures of some recognized religion — more difficult, certainly, than the case of a man who can bring evidence of regular Sunday School attendance.

But even were the number of COs to double or triple (there are presently some 36,500 out of a total of nearly 1 million men classified 1-A), this would hardly constitute "an impossible burden" on draft boards, as one congressman fears, or result in "an administrative nightmare," as one journalist suggests.

Anyway, does anyone seriously maintain that we may legitimately send an atheist to war, or to jail, while exempting his believing brother, simply because the atheist constitutes an administrative burden?

The question may be academic. Selective Service director, Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, has announced such elaborate requirements for nonbelieving COs that your average churchgoer would have trouble qualifying.

It may be time that the draft began to be a little bit inconvenient for the government as well as for the governed. It may be time that the government were required to justify to young men its demand for military service rather than young men having to justify their objection to that service.

So used are we to the draft that we forget that conscription is the exception and not the rule in our history — almost "un-American." So used are we to the draft that we fear the nation's defenses would crumble without it and the wolves prowling outside would attack.

The draft also seems to have become some sort of test of the patriotism of every crop of 18- or 19-year-olds, or the "dues" every youth must pay to qualify for full citizenship, either through actual service or the fear of service.

"Sometimes it seems to me a grotesque credit card," says Chancellor Dean E. McHenry of the University of California in Santa Clara — a credit card "to which diplomatic failures and military adventures may be charged, and the bill is paid in the lost lives and health and years by our able-bodied male youth, aged 18 to 26."

It is provocative to imagine what the course of the past five years might have been like had the nation maintained only a small standing army in 1965 and had President Johnson been forced to go to Congress and the people to obtain the wherewithal to make possible our massive involvement in Vietnam. Surely, we would have looked more closely at that involvement.

It will be objected that without a draft to maintain a large army, the United States would lose credibility among its allies and would in effect say to its enemies, "You may now take over any country you please; we are too weak to stop you."

Yet without the unlimited "credit card" of the draft to encourage reckless spending, we might take more care to distinguish those situations where a small force, quickly sent and quickly withdrawn, could accomplish more than an army bogged down for years. President Eisenhower, after all, did not use draftees to intervene successfully in Lebanon in 1957.

In fact, it might well be a rule: Any overseas intervention which a small task force of professionals could not handle ought not to be attempted at all.

As for the fear that ending the draft would render the nation unprepared for large-scale conventional war, thus inviting the danger that every confrontation between East and West could escalate into a nuclear exchange, it is difficult to envision a large-scale war between East and West without the use of nuclear weapons — in which case it would all be over long before the first "Greetings" could be delivered to the first draftee.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Same Old Crowd Plagues the OAS

WASHINGTON — The Organization of American States had degenerated into a status of bumbledom, devoted more to pomposity than policymaking, when Ecuador's silver-haired Galo Plaza was named Secretary-General two years ago. It had reached the point where two top men got into a fistfight during office hours and one diplomat even claimed his life was threatened in the power struggle that finally ended with Plaza's election.

The dignified Plaza, a suave handsome man who looks like movie star Rosanno Brazzi, promised a "sharp turn of helm." He was expected to break up the self-serving administrative clique and to transform the OAS into a respected institution.

He delegated most of his administrative authority to his assistant secretary for management, Stuart Portner, a likeable American with an impeccable wardrobe and an infectious giggle.

Instead of making the expected reforms, they have largely retained the same old crowd and preserved the Gilbert and Sullivan atmosphere. Today, as the OAS delegates sit in solemn assembly in Washington for their annual meeting, not much has changed.

A thorough, three-week investigation for this column by reporter Richard Karp has turned up the following facts:

—Despite Plaza's promises of change, only three of the 20 key administrative posts have been taken over by new men. The two aides who once squared off, Manuel Trucco and Jorge Schamis, not only remain on the job but Schamis has been promoted. Plaza explained that both are able men who have patched up their differences.

Looking Backward

Ninety-three Years Ago

The board of directors of the District Fair have determined to hold the exhibition this year for six days beginning Monday, September 24. Mr. Newkirk and Mr. Jaynes who own the land have placed it at the disposal of the directors for use during the Fair, free of rent. R. C. Sneed will be Chief Marshal.

Forty Years Ago

Citizens of Windsor and surrounding territory are desirous of having an all-weather concrete highway connection with Sedalia via highways 52 and 65. A committee from there met with Sedalia business men for joint action to obtain a hard surface road for the eleven mile stretch which is now a graded dirt road.

Twenty-five Years Ago

Robert Bruce Bothwell of Sedalia, received the degree of bachelor of science in mechanical engineering at graduation exercises at Iowa State College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bothwell, 726 West Seventh street.

—Plenty of Limousines—

—A constant complaint around OAS headquarters is that there's a chronic shortage of office supplies. The man in charge of the supplies, Charles Murray, blames this on budget limitations. The tight budget, however, hasn't prevented the OAS from doubling the size of its fleet of sleek, chauffeur-driven cars for the top officials. Explains Murray: "Sure, we take care of the big shots. They're the people who run the place." Plaza said he often drives his OAS Lincoln Continental himself to avoid working his chauffeur overtime.

—Francisco Garcia-Amador, head of the OAS legal department, has been using the organization's legal staff to do research for books Amador publishes as his own work. Asked about this questionable use of the OAS staff, Plaza agreed it was improper and said he was trying to stop it.

—Conflicts of Interest—

—Herbert Morales and Roberto Aragon, who run the OAS broadcasting department, have been doing a lucrative business on the side for the Voice of America. Morales has two contracts for culture commentaries, which are beamed to parts of Latin America. Aragon heads a Puerto Rican corporation called "Perspective News" which produces a daily news commentary for the VOA. Morales uses a pseudonym, Aragon uses his own name in these broadcasts. Informed of the moonlighting, Plaza acknowledged it was a conflict of interest but said he had been unaware of it. The entanglement is further complicated by the fact that all OAS broadcasts are beamed on air time donated by the VOA.

—The press chief Plaza hired as part of his revitalization program turned out to be a retired wire serviceman in his 60s named Ben Meyer. He has alienated virtually all the reporters who cover the OAS. Meyer started off on the wrong foot by commandeering part of the press facilities to make room for his spacious office.

Subsequently, he has annoyed reporters with frequent press releases glorifying Plaza. One release this year was devoted entirely to an absurd tongue-in-cheek remark about smog that Plaza made in a speech in Los Angeles. On another occasion, Mexican reporter Pedro Pablo Camargo said that Meyer grabbed him by the shirt and tried to throw him out of a meeting between Plaza and visiting journalists. Meyer denies the charges.

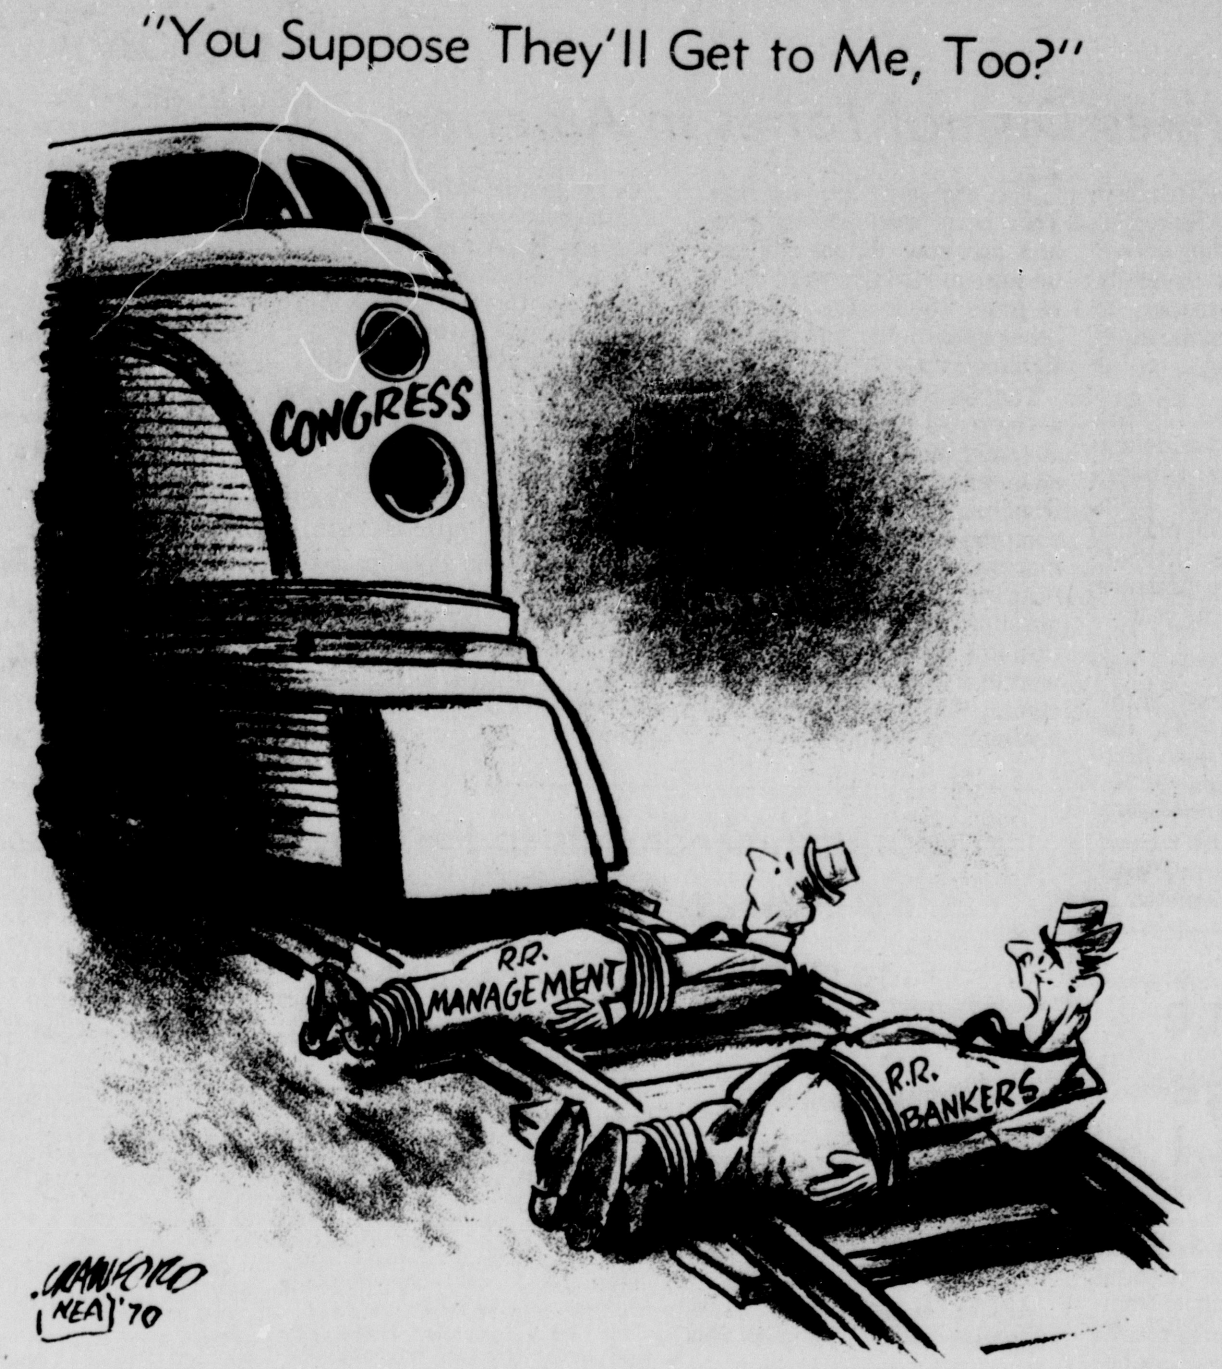

Footnote: Galo Plaza, known for his integrity and his strong belief in freedom of the press, made every effort to assist this column in its investigation.

—Soviet Mid-East Moves—

A secret intelligence analysis warns that the Russians are attempting to take advantage of the deteriorating U.S. relations with Jordan.

There is reliable intelligence that the Russians have offered to bolster King Hussein in his showdown with the Palestinian guerrillas. The analysis suggests that Russia is willing to support King Hussein and the moderate Al Fatah in Jordan against the more radical, Chinese-influenced guerrilla groups.

The Soviet motive, according to the analysis, is to woo King Hussein away from the U.S., but also to checkmate Chinese influence in the Arab world. The secret analysis suggests, hopefully, that Russia would like to stabilize the Middle East and reopen the Suez Canal.

Mounting Tax Bite On Homeowners

By CARLTON SMITH

How much property tax is too much for a homeowner? The national norm is — or was, some months ago — 4 per cent of the family's annual income. But if that's all the tax collector gets from you, count your blessings.

Large numbers of homeowners are now paying out so large a percentage of income that the property tax puts a severe economic squeeze on them. What's happening across the country is told in the record of one of last year's Senate subcommittee hearings.

When a family has to turn over as much as 10 per cent of its total yearly earnings — 2½ times the national median for owners of nonfarm homes — it can hardly be denied that the tax load is excessive, the subcommittee was told by John Shannon, assistant director of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. There is no doubt, he said, that the number of householders paying this much and more "has now passed the 3 million mark."

The spectacle of large numbers of homeowners being "forced through the property-tax wringer," said Shannon, is "a mighty sad commentary on an affluent society." Shannon appeared to testify at one of the hearings that, over the past several months, have marked an in-depth study of the economics of aging, conducted by the Senate Special Committee on Aging under Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J.

The trap that has sprung on these unhappy homeowners has two jaws. One is the steep rise we've seen in property tax rates. Figures on the tax, as a percentage of the market value of the home, show it has more than doubled in eight years — a rise considerably steeper even than the rate of general inflation, bad as that has been.

According to Census Bureau data, the percentage figure rose on the average, from 1.25 to 2.55 per cent between 1960 and 1968. During the same period, the tax as a percentage of the family's income rose from a median 2.7 per cent to 4 per cent.

The other jaw of the trap has even sharper teeth. Property taxes are regressive — falling most heavily on those least able to pay. For example, on a home with a $20,000 market value, the tax is the same for the householder earning $8,000 a year and for one earning $15,000. But for one, it's 3.4 per cent of his income, and for the other about 6.4 per cent, nearly double.

Those hit hardest, of course, are wage earners in the lower income brackets whose earnings are relatively fixed and don't keep pace with the rise in general living costs and the even more-punishing increases in property tax rates. Retirees living on pensions or income from savings, and Social Security beneficiaries suffer most of all.

"There is absolutely no question in my mind," said Shannon, "that there are hundreds of thousands" of such families who are "being forced to liquidate their assets in order to pay the tax on shelter."

He cited figures showing that large numbers of homeowners in the overtaxed category pay out 30 per cent of annual income to meet property tax bills, and one segment turns over an average of 58 per cent.

In contrast to the property tax, federal income taxes are progressive, laying more of the burden on those best able to pay. In addition, there's special tax relief at the federal level for true hardship cases, but the regressive property tax grinds even harder on those most in need of relief. "It's like fighting the air conditioner with the furnace," Shannon commented.

A very few states, most notably Wisconsin, have instituted some form of property tax relief for the overburdened — and, said Shannon, demonstrated that it can be done with little loss of local revenue.

But until the idea of a more equitable sharing of the burden of property taxes gains wider acceptance, home buyers had best be aware of the crippling tax load they can inherit as rising tax rates command an increasing share of earnings.

Oswald: "When I was your age, I used to shudder when I cut certain old timers as my partner in a rubber bridge game. Somehow or other, they never seemed to bid their hands with any accuracy. On looking back, part of our troubles may stem from the fact that I had a reputation as a very fancy bidder."

Jim: "You still have, although you have stopped opening psychics today."

Oswald: "I stopped quite awhile back for two reasons. The unimportant reason was that, when they worked, my opponents would get very mad. The important reason was that they didn't work often enough."

Jim: "I can see that your partner's early bidding of today's hand was based on his fear that you had opened a psychic."

Oswald: "I can't blame him too much. We weren't vulnerable and with both vulnerable opponents in action it looked like something funny was going on."

Jim: "That explains his failure to bid more than five diamonds over your five clubs. Then, when you suddenly went to six diamonds it shouldn't have been difficult for him to mark you with the ace-queen of diamonds and ace of clubs."

Oswald: "He did that all right but his reason for the six-spade call was that he wanted everything not nailed down and that spades counted more than diamonds. You don't think that I could now go to seven diamonds, do you?"

Jim: "No. However, your partner had an easy way to try for the brass ring. He could have bid six hearts to see if you would bid spades rather than rebid to seven in a minor."

Nixon Contradicts Self on Economics

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's analysis of what this nation's economy needs is probably sound.

But some of his major actions this past year and a half contradict his own logic.

Nixon says productivity in the American economy depends on the effectiveness of management, the investment of capital for research development and advanced technology and most of all on the training and progressive spirit of 86 million working Americans.

But Nixon, like President Johnson before him, has cut back on the investment of capital for research and development.

The cutback in real dollars has been over a wide range and will, in the aggregate, affect almost every major industry, directly or indirectly.

Federal funds for basic and developmental research are down. It is not only space and defense which have less for research and development. The cuts extend through almost every department and agency whose studies aid business productivity.

Recent Nixon actions have made it much more difficult for private industry to make the continuing huge investment in modern machinery, computers and new plant and other equipment necessary to keep productivity moving up at the pace it must to hold inflation down and employment up.

That is, the tax credit on new investments for machinery and equipment has been eliminated. The cost of capital (interest rates) needed to buy modern machines has become prohibitively high.

Thousands of the type of small, imaginative companies — which have as a group produced an important share of this nation's new productivity techniques — have been forced to the wall, driven out of business or absorbed by larger staid companies with less imagination but more ready capital. This will slow development in such important fields as advanced electronics for years to come.

As for job training, this administration's own programs indicate that something is wrong with their operators.

More money may be needed. But even more importantly, these programs need to be studied to learn how to make certain that men are being trained in ways that will increase their industrial productivity. The reports indicate that too often this is not the case.

Imbalance in Funds

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Representative William J. Randall expressed himself strongly in the "Extensions of Remarks" in the Congressional Record June 23rd on his position in regard to the Office of Economic Opportunity. A large part of Representative Randall's district is rural and he has long advocated the theory that if our rural areas were given better schools, more industry, better housing and improved facilities, there would be less migration to the cities and some of the great urban problems would not be created.

The Congressman read the testimony of Mr. Charles Braithwait, the executive director of the West Central Missouri Rural Development Corporation, before the Senate Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Welfare appropriations, chaired by the senior Senator from Washington, Warren G. Magnuson. Mr. Braithwait expressed the dilemma to the nine counties in Western Missouri which his organization represents. Eight of these counties are in Rep. Randall's fourth district.

Mr. Braithwait's testimony before the committee was included in the Congressman's remarks which also expressed Randall's own views. He read Mr. Braithwait's testimony in full, which is briefly summarized in these remarks:

"I asked to appear before this committee. I asked to be here to speak for some 50,000 people who have few other voices. These people are predominately white, generally elderly and stunned by what has happened to them. They didn't become poor quickly but have seen their area, their economy and their personal incomes dwindle. They do not seek a blank check on the national treasury — they only need help to understand and deal with an unfriendly and changing world."

The Congressman then gave his own views, a portion of which follows:

"The testimony of Director Braithwait emphasizes a position that my office has long stood for, and that is that there is a pronounced imbalance in the appropriation of OEO funds between the rural and the urban areas. We all know that there was a time when the Office of Economic Opportunity funds were regarded simply as a sort of fire extinguisher, to cool off racial unrest. Thank goodness that concept was abandoned and today at least some attention has been focused on areas other than the inner, inner city to the neglect and omission of what could be described as outlying or quasi-agricultural, small-town communities."

"As Mr. Braithwait so eloquently sets forth in his statement, when a person is poor, geography makes no difference. His statistical data points up the need for a more careful look by both Appropriations Committees, in both bodies of the Congress, toward a more equitable distribution of funds between the urban and the so-called rural areas."

"Mr. Speaker, if there is one possible solution to our urban problems, it is that our cities do not become larger and larger and more and more unmanageable, and that what some of us prefer to describe as rural revitalization must go forward. We mean, of course, to turn around by every means available the continued migration from the rural areas to the big cities, and hopefully keep the population stable and constant in our rural areas. Then we can look forward to the day we can attract some light industry to provide the income which can revitalize our rural areas."

Thought for Today

Motto Was Omitted

The 1907 issue of the U.S. $20 gold coin did not originally carry the motto, "In God We Trust," the omission being made to comply with the belief of President Theodore Roosevelt that such a motto on coins of commerce was sacrilegious. Congress, however, forced restoration of the motto in 1908 and a second issue of the coin was made.

Best Idea Is to Remove Plastic from Lamp Shades

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Esther wanted to know whether or not she should remove the clear plastic that came on her new lamp shades. As an extension home economist, I have been taught that this wrap should be removed as it could cause glare and be a fire hazard.—MARIE

DEAR POLLY—In answer to Esther's question about leaving the plastic wrapping on her new lamp shades, I would advise her to remove it. When I finally removed it from mine the lamp shades had brown marks on them where the dirt had gotten between the strips of plastic.—MRS. P. Y.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My small son loves to ride in a wagon but is constantly falling out. I have seen wagons with wooden railings on the sides but cannot find one. Does anyone know if they are still being made? If not, perhaps some resourceful reader could tell me how to fix a regular wagon this way. Also, how does one make a swing from an old tire and attach it to a tree limb?—MARY

DEAR POLLY—A brown paper bag clipped to my shoe rack holds soiled nylon hosiery. Once a week I launder hose. After they were dry, it was a real chore to sort through them to pick out those with runs—I save those for stuffing pillows, toys, etc. Those with conspicuous runs can be worn while doing housework. I knot together each pair with runs before putting them in the bag. After being washed, they dry as quickly as the single ones and are easy to spot for sorting. This is especially good for teen-agers and career girls.—JEAN

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell the girls how I clean under heavy furniture, stoves and anything I cannot move when there is not a man around the house to help. I made a terry cloth mitt for my fly swatter and tied it around the handle so I can dust or clean with water under most anything. I also have one on my dust mop so I can wipe or wash my walls from the floor.—O. E. L.

Cards, K.C. Split Doubleheader Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Royals split doubleheaders Sunday.

The Cards beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in the opener on Richie Allen's tie-breaking single but were routed in the nightcap 8-3 when the Phils scored five times in the 10th inning.

Kansas City, after losing the first game 2-1, defeated the California Angels 13-1 but probably lost outfielder Joe Keough for the rest of the season when he suffered a possible fractured right leg and dislocated ankle in the second game's fifth inning.

The Cardinals scored the winning run in their first game when Vic Davalillo doubled in the seventh and Allen came up with his two-out single against reliever Dick Selma after Philadelphia had tied the score twice with two-run rallies.

St. Louis forced the nightcap into extra innings when Mike Shannon led off the ninth with a double and scored on a throwing error by Phils third baseman Don Money. Ron Stone started the winning rally in the 10th with a leadoff double against Billy McCool.

Kansas City collected 18 hits to back rookie Al Fitzmorris' pitching for the Royals' triumph. Lou Piniella drove in three Kansas City runs with a sacrifice fly, his seventh home run and a single.

Amos Otis doubled three times and singled twice to drive in three runs. Cookie Rojas had three hits.

Otis got Kansas City's only run in the first game with his seventh home run in the first inning. With the game tied 1-1, Jim Fregosi hit his 13th home run in the fifth off Jim Rooker.

Both teams got on road trips tonight. St. Louis will pitch Steve Carlton, 4-9, against the Cubs' Ken Holtzman, 8-5, at Chicago. Kansas City's pitcher will be Dick Drago, 6-4, against the Twins' Jim Perry, 10-6, at Minnesota.

Record Crowd Sees East Win

LUBBOCK, Tex., (AP) — The All-America Coaches Association football game is alive and well in Lubbock, Tex.

"We're really pleased to say it mildly," said Bill Murray, president of the AFCA. "The game is definitely on in Lubbock for next year."

A record crowd of 41,150 jammed Jones Stadium Saturday night as the East outlasted the West 34-27 in a wild-scoring thriller that had tempers on edge.

It was a far cry from the 17,000 persons who watched the game in Atlanta in 1969.

"It was a great effort by the community to come back from that tornado the way they did and pack the stadium," Murray said.

A tornado killed 26 persons in Lubbock May 11 as it cut an eight-mile swath through the city.

"We thought the game was dead here for awhile after the tornado," Murray said. "I was really surprised the way things turned out. They even made some money on it. Just great... really great."

The nationally televised battle had everything—a nerve-jangling ending, nine touchdowns, fist fights, and a light failure in the last pulsating moments.

The East evened the series at five games apiece. Bruce Taylor of Boston intercepted a Dennis Shaw pass and zipped 42 yards for a touchdown late in the fourth period to give the East its final margin of victory.

But Shaw, a strong-armed youngster from San Diego State who is bound for the Buffalo Bills, rallied the West. He whipped them down the field where a pass to Idaho's Jerry Hendren at the final gun was ruled just out of the end zone.

Seconds earlier Shaw had hit Ron Gardin of Arizona with what appeared to be a sure touchdown pass, but Gardin stumbled after making the catch of the 3-yard pass and fell on the East.

Davidson's Gordon Slade, the East quarterback, rifled touchdown passes of 4 and 21 yards to Frank Foreman of Michigan State and ran five yards for a touchdown himself.

Ohio State's bruising Jim Otis was voted the most valuable player as the East star gained 145 yards in 47 carries.

The game even had a blocked punt turned into a touchdown by Texas Tech's Richard Campbell of the West. Campbell sang the national anthem before the game.

A few players exchanged kicks and punches in the waning moments of the game played in 90-degree heat on Jones Stadium's new synthetic turf.

But things cooled off after the lights on the west bank of the stadium winked off with two minutes to play.

Coach Charles McClendon of the East by way of Louisiana State said "I never saw a better offensive game. Wasn't it great? Shoot we didn't win until the last second and you can't ask for any more than that."

Steve Carlton, 4-9, against the Cubs' Ken Holtzman, 8-5, at Chicago. Kansas City's pitcher will be Dick Duro, 6-4, against the Twins' Jim Perry, 10-6, at Minnesota.

Nijinsky Wins As Expected

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hanalei Bay, a milk-fed orphan who grew into a stakes-class performer, and Nijinsky, the royal Canadian-bred who has become the talk of Europe, scored victories in two rich races for 3-year-olds over the weekend.

Hanalei Bay, owned by Robert K. Miller, won the $123,200 Hollywood Derby. Saturday while Nijinsky, owned by American Charles Engelhard, made the Irish Sweepstakes at the Currah, Ireland, his ninth victory in as many career starts.

In two other big stakes, Sarah Hall's French-bred Semillant, ridden by Frenchman Jean Cruguet, won the $84,200 Massachusetts Handicap on the grass at Suffolk Downs and Sonny Werblin's Silent Screen took the $56,900 Saranac Handicap at the closing of the Belmont Park meeting.

Hanalei Bay, who was orphaned at three weeks and on a special milk formula, got home by a neck over Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gary's favored Corn off the Cob, with Western Welcome third in the Hollywood Derby at Hollywood Park.

The race was marred when Faithful Leader, ridden by Wayne Harris, fell, broke an ankle and had to be destroyed. My Gallant Way almost fell and unseated Alvaro Pineda. Neither Harris nor Pineda was hurt.

"It was so easy even my grandmother could have won on this great horse," Irish jockey Liam Ward said after Nijinsky came from behind for a three-length victory over Meadowville in the Irish Sweepstakes Derby.

In becoming only the second English Derby-Irish Derby winner in history, Nijinsky ran the 1 1/2 miles in 2:33.6 for the first price of $136,800.

Engelhard said he plans to keep Nijinsky, son of 1964 Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer, racing in England but also would like to win France's Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and a major race in the United States.

Semillant carried 113 pounds over the about 1 1/2 miles in 2:27.1-5 for 2 1/2 length victory over James B. Moseley's filly Drumtop, high-weighted at 119 pounds, in the Massachusetts Handicap. The winner paid $10.60.

Silent Screen, $4.80, top-weighted at 123 pounds, carried John L. Rotz over the one mile of the Saranac for 3-year-olds in 1:36 for a three-length victory over El Peco Ranch's Aggressive, with Her-Jac Stable's Naskra third.

Bivins Cops I-70 Cash Saturday

ODESSA — Terry Bivins of Shawnee Mission, Kan. won three of the four racing events he entered Saturday night at I-70 Speedway, near Odessa.

Bivins nabbed the fast time, the trophy dash and the late model stock car feature. His only lesser finish was when he had to settle for second place in the heat race to Dave Wall.

Among other highlights was the appearance of two new late model drivers, but by no means were they strangers to the one-half mile asphalt facility — Ed Leavitt and "Tiger" Bob Williams.

Leavitt, who finished second in the second heat race to Lewis Taylor and placed 11th in the feature, was piloting a 1969 Dodge Charger; one that was formally driven by the Bobby Isaac team in the southern United States.

Donnie Cooper of Sedalia, after a crash in his first outing of the season in the late model division last week at I-70, finished in seventh place in the feature.

One record was broken during the night's program; that being in the first heat race, when Dave Wall established a new clocking for ten laps of 3:13.72.

First of Two

Throwing for a double play, St. Louis' shortstop Dal Maxvill lets the ball fly toward first after getting the force play at second on Philadelphia's Byron Browne.

The action came in the sixth inning of the first game between the teams, Sunday in St. Louis. The double play started when Larry Bowa hit to Julian Javier (25). (UPI)

Evans Drops 440-Yard Bid To John Smith of UCLA

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Lee Evans, long the world's premier quarter miler, lost in his final United States appearance and immediately named his conquerer as "the man who will be No. 1 for a long time after me."

UCLA sophomore John Smith, a 20-year-old who ran in the shadow of teammate Wayne Collett this season, blasted to the front in the final 20 yards Saturday night to capture the 440 at the National AAU track and field championships.

In the process, Evans, Collett and world record holder Curtis Mills were beaten with his 45.7 lifetime best.

"John and I are good friends," said Evans after the race. "I couldn't accept losing to anyone but him. I'm through after this year and I pick John to be No. 1 for a long time. He's got the proper attitude and he's got a lot of talent."

The modest Smith — called by UCLA Coach Jim Bush "a novice in the 440" — said the quarter was billed as a race with a great field and "I think the pressure hurt everyone but me."

He said, however, that Evans' position in the outside lane was the thing that hurt the Olympic king. "If he had been inside, he would have won," said Smith, who came from four yards back with 20 to go to catch the fading Evans.

Another relative newcomer to stardom was the U.S. Army's Ben Vaughan, winner of the 220 and second in a controversial 100.

Vaughan, a 5-foot-11 former Georgia Tech sprinter, claims he has "a miserable start." But he needed only a burst of speed at the head of the final straightaway Saturday night to win the 220 in 20.8, edging late-striding Willie Turner of Oregon State, the NCAA king.

In Friday night's 100 finals, Vaughan appeared to hit the tape ahead of Southern Illinois' Ivory Crockett, the defending champ. But judges studied a photo of the finish and awarded first place to Crockett. "The least I thought they could give me was a dead heat," Vaughan said.

The next morning, officials received a protest about the decision from Army Coach Ralph Higgins and they again studied the photo. But Crockett retained his crown again when the judges stuck by their decision.

Others to win titles Saturday night at the Bakersfield College track were Ralph Mann, with a 49.8 meet record victory in the intermediate hurdles; Ken Swenson of Kansas State with a 1:47.4 half mile triumph; Bill Skinner, who heaved the javelin 276-7; William & Mary's Howell Michael with a 4:01.8 mile; Randy Matson with a meet record 67-10 1/2 shot put and Milan Tiff who took only one attempt and won the triple jump at 53-0.

Also winning Saturday were Bill Reilly in the steeplechase at 8:34.6, Bob Seagren in the pole vault at 17-2 and Tom Doolley in the two-mile walk at 13:44.0.

The six-mile went to two teammates who finished in a dead heat with arms locked. Frank Shorter, winner of the three-mile the night before, and Jack Bacherlor, both of the Florida Track Club, ran 27:24.0.

Sagging Cubs Sag Again to Pittsburgh

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates closed the curtain on Forbes Field Sunday and it is rapidly dropping on the Chicago Cubs as well.

The Pirates celebrated the final day of baseball in their park's 61-year history by sweeping Chicago 3-2 and 4-1, tagging

Utz Runs In Second At Capital

JEFFERSON CITY — The finish was virtually the same as it has been in the past at Capital Speedway.

Sedalia's Bill Utz ran second again to Wib Spalding of Granite City, Ill. in the feature race of Capital Speedway's regular weekly racing program, Saturday night.

The late model division, as usual, saw Tommy Frasher win the fast time, the trophy dash and the feature.

Cliff Powell, Spalding and Utz were the supermodified heat race winners, while Gay Scott nabbed the super's consolation feature.

Utz was also able to best the field in the trophy dash, by taking first.

Fast time of the evening in the supermodified division went to Warrensburg's Jay Lyle at :20.20.

Spalding grabbed the lead from his outside pole position in the feature and was never headed as the next four finishers. Utz, Jr. Dietzel, Jay Lyle and Russell Hibbard, followed Spalding across the finish line.

the Cubs with a 10-game losing streak.

It was the third doubleheader which Chicago has lost in eight days and the sagging Cubs tumbled into third place in the National League's East Division 2½ games behind New York. What's worse is that the Cubs are almost as close to fifth place Philadelphia as they are to the first place Mets.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Montreal tripped New York 3-2, St. Louis split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 5-4 before losing 8-3 in 10 innings. San Francisco took two from Atlanta 6-4

Dr. Pepper Drops Pair Sunday Night

The Dr. Pepper softball team's record of Sedalia dipped to four wins and six losses Sunday night at Housel Park, with two losses from Boonville Gaslight Inn.

Both defeats were due to unearned runs — four in the first game and six in the second. In the first contest, Dr. Pepper gave up all four unearned runs in the third inning as the entire side batted for Boonville.

Three fielding errors and one passed ball, added to the two lone singles in the inning, produced the four runs.

Dr. Pepper came up with their only run in the first game, when in the sixth inning Scott Hudson with one out, lined a triple into deep centerfield. Seconds later, Hudson scored on an error. His tally turned out to be the only one for Dr. Pepper during the entire evening's play.

The Dr. Pepper sixth inning ended with two men stranded on the base pads.

Taking the loss for Dr. Pepper was Ronnie Landrith, while Wessing was the winner.

In the second game of the evening, Boonville posted one unearned run in the first inning, three in the second and two in the seventh to walk off with a 6-0 victory.

Dr. Pepper pitcher Jim Werneke was the loser, while Schuster was credited with the win.

The locals will next play a team from Warrensburg Wednesday night at Housel Park. Game time for the first of two games will be at 7:30 p.m. in 10 innings and 4-3, Los Angeles blanked San Diego 2-0 and Cincinnati nipped Houston 3-2.

The Cubs and Pirates were tied at 2-2 in the eighth inning of their opener when Roberto Clemente doubled, Reliever Larry Gura hit Al Oliver and then Phil Regan came on. In between umpire examinations of the baseball, Regan's cap and glove for possible foreign substances, Gene Alley and Jerry May both walked, forcing in Pittsburgh's winning run.

In the second game, the score was tied 1-1 in the fifth when Bob Robertson singled and stole second. Bill Mazeroski was intentionally walked and then Jim Hickman dropped a throw on pitcher Jim Nelson's bounce, loading the bases. Matty Alou followed with a two-un single.

The sweep was a happy send-off for the old stadium and moved the streaking Pirates to their seventh straight victory and a virtual tie for the NL East Lead. Pittsburgh trails the Mets by two percentage points and starts a three-game series in New York tonight.

The Mets fell victim to some late-inning thunder in Montreal with Rusty Staub hammering a two-run eighth inning homer that brought the Expos from behind.

Dave Marshall, who had three hits, homered in the top half of the eighth for New York, breaking a 1-1 tie. But Staub connected after Don Hahn's single to win it in the bottom half of the inning.

St. Louis moved to within one game of the Cubs by splitting with Philadelphia. The Cards took the opener with Richie Allen's seventh inning single driving in the deciding run against his ex-teammates Joe Torre had two singles and a homer and drove in two runs.

In the nightcap, the Phillies earned the split by getting five runs in the 10th inning to break the game open. Johnny Briggs' pinch single delivered the tie-breaking run and an error and four more singles produced the insurance runs. Reliever Dick Selma lost the first game and won the second.

In the West Division, Cincinnati maintained its nine game lead by knocking off Houston on three solo home runs by Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan and Tony Perez. Rose and Tolan connected consecutively at the start of the game and then Perez' lead-off homer in the ninth snapped a 2-2 tie.

Los Angeles, running second in the West, won its sixth straight with Alan Foster and Jim Brewer combining to shut out San Diego. Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre drove home the Dodgers runs in the first inning and that was enough to tag the Padres with their eighth consecutive loss. The Braves' losing streak stretched to seven games with the doubleheader loss to San Francisco. Rookie Alan Gallagher's 10th inning homer won the opener for the Giants after San Francisco had rallied to tie the game on Ken Henderson's RBI-single in the seventh.

In the second game, Frank Johnson, substituting for Willie Mays, drove in three runs with a triple and a single as the Giants completed the sweep.

Houston U. Takes Golf Title Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Davey Williams, whose Houston team has sacked another NCAA golf crown, could take a psychological tip from his star player, John Mahaffey.

Mahaffey, thanks to some advice from Lee Trevino in the U. S. Open, has adopted a cocky, carefree attitude. It brought him a final round 68 Saturday for a four-under-par 284 for the NCAA individual title.

"I tried for a birdie on every hole," said Mahaffey of the head-to-head duel he won over Lanny Wadkins in the final round. The little Cougar star threw five birdies at Wadkins, enough to overtake the Wake Forest sophomore by one shot.

Williams didn't behave like a coach whose team was winning the title for the 12th time in 15 years. Houston finished with 1,172 strokes for four men for 72 holes, 10 better than Wake Forest.

"I was so nervous," said Williams, "I must have walked back and forth at the scoreboard a million times."

Only two other players broke par for the 72 holes over Ohio State's demanding 7,120 - yard Scarlet course. Ray Leach of Brigham Young finished third with 286 and Tom Kite of Texas fourth with 287.

Brigham Young took third place in the team race with 1,189 strokes. Oklahoma State was fourth with 1,190 and Los Angeles State fifth with 1,196.

This Plus $30,000

Bruce Devlin, Coral Gables, Fla., smiles as he holds up the trophy after winning the $150,000 Cleveland Open, Sunday. He fired a 12-under-par, 72-hole total of 268.

Along with the trophy was a $30,000 first prize. (UPI)

Eichstaedt's Bid Fails

Devlin Grabs Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — He's got to be the happiest loser of the year.

"I'm still in a cloud," Steve Eichstaedt said Sunday after his upset bid failed and he settled for second place in the $150,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

"I'll probably have to pinch myself tomorrow when I wake up to make sure it isn't all a dream."

The tall, rail-thin young veteran of combat duty in Vietnam had to be the biggest longshot in the field—many of the touring pros didn't know him, hadn't heard of him—when they started play.

He hadn't made a dime in three previous tournaments this year. But, at one point down the stretch of the leg-wearying 36-hole windup, he holed out a six-iron shot for an eagle and took the lead.

But the 24-year-old couldn't keep up with Bruce Devlin's scorching pace and finished second, shooting a final 68 for 272, four strokes back of Devlin.

The Australian tour regular opened with a 66, then flashed in with a six-under-par 64, matching the course record for the hilly, 6,661 yard, Aurora Country Club course.

That gave him a 72-hole total of 268, 12 under par, for the $30,000 first prize and his second championship of the year. He won the Bob Hope Desert Classic early in the season and has earned over $87,000 for his best year since joining the tour in 1962.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — An Australian ex-carpenter and the son of an English steel worker today brought a promise of more excitement into the second week of the Wimbledon tennis tournament, already set ablaze by the downfall of mighty Rod Laver.

The two players adding unexpected spice to these unofficial world championships were Roger Taylor and Bob "Nails" Carmichael, who reached the quarter-finals of the men's singles with upsets that staggered the fans.

Taylor, 28-year-old British professional, ranked last of 16 seeds, was the hometown hero for sensation knocking Laver out of the tournament he had made his own. Dethronement of the wiry Aussie was the biggest shock at Wimbledon since the championships went open in 1968.

Taylor whose father worked in the steel mills of Sheffield and whose mother taught him tennis on public courts, defeated Laver 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 in the finest win of his career.

Carmichael, a one-time woodworker who has toiled for eight years on the intramural tennis circuit without notable success, got into the quarter-finals with a straight sets victory over South Africa's Bob Hewitt.

The 29-year-old unseeded Australian had never previously reached the last 16 at Wimbledon, let alone the last eight.

In Tuesday's quarter-finals, Taylor plays Clark Graebner of New York, the only American left in the men's singles, and Carmichael plays Spain's Andres Gimeno, conqueror of third-seeded Arthur Ashe in another major fourth-round upset. Ashe, from Richmond, Va., had been America's main hope for the title, but Gimeno, seeded

Gurney Makes It Two In Row; Andretti Nabs U.S.A.C. Victory

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Champagne flowed freely Sunday as Dan Gurney made it two in a row in the prestigious Can-Am Challenge Cup series and Mario Andretti finally got rid of early-season troubles to win his first race of the season.

But down in Dixie, 40-year-old Tiny Lund celebrated his 13th Grand American circuit victory in 15 starts by visiting a hamburger stand to feed his 250-pound, 6-4 frame.

Other winners of weekend auto racing events were Bobby Isaac, in a NASCAR Grand National stocker at Greenville, S. C., his sixth of the season; and Jerry Hansen of Minneapolis, in a Class A formula race at State Fair Park near Milwaukee.

Two drivers lost their lives in crashes, both in Europe. Derek

Williams, 27, of Britain, was killed when his open-cockpit racer collided with another in a race near Stockholm. A French driver, Jean-Luc Salomon, died in a pileup of three similar cars near Rouen, France.

Gurney, 37, of Santa Ana, Calif., now has won both of the races held in the $1 million 1970 Can-Am series for Group 7 sports-racing cars since joining the McLaren team three days before the opener at Mosport Park, Ontario, two weeks ago.

At Mt. Tremblant, Quebec, Gurney drove a McLaren Mark 8B to victory by 10.4 seconds Sunday over runnerup Lothar Motschenbacher. Gurney led all but 14 of the 75 laps over the treacherous Laurentian Mountains course. His average speed was 97.95 miles per hour.

Gurney, who replaced builder driver Bruce McLaren on the British-based team, now has won nearly $30,000 in Can-Am money and has 40 points toward a season championship worth $50,000 in bonuses. McLaren was killed June 2 while testing one of the new McLaren cars in England.

Andretti, who started the season with new German-designed McNamara Fords, finally got one of the stubby machines to work properly and easily won a 150-mile USAC championship race at Castle Rock, Colo.

The 1969 Indianapolis 500 winner, whose prize money take last year exceeded $325,000, passed top qualifier Al Unser at the start of the 17th lap over the 2.66-mile road course and was never headed.

Second place went to Swede Savage, a 23-year-old Californian who took over Gurney's championship car when the latter joined McLaren. Third was A. J. Foyt; fourth was Bobby Unser; while Al Unser finished fifth.

Lund, who operates a fish camp at Cross, S.C., when he isn't racing, drove a Camaro to victory in 100-mile race for pony cars at Hampton, Va., Saturday night. Jim Paschal, a 44-year-old veteran, was second in a Javelin, while 51-year-old Buck Baker was third in a Pontiac Firebird.

Isaac, 33, drove a Dodge to his sixth victory of the season after setting a record pace of 75.3 m.p.h. over the newly-paved half-mile oval at Greenville, S. C. Bobby Allison was second in a Dodge, while Dick Brooks was third in a Plymouth and James Hylton fourth in a Ford.

McMillen Dispute Settled

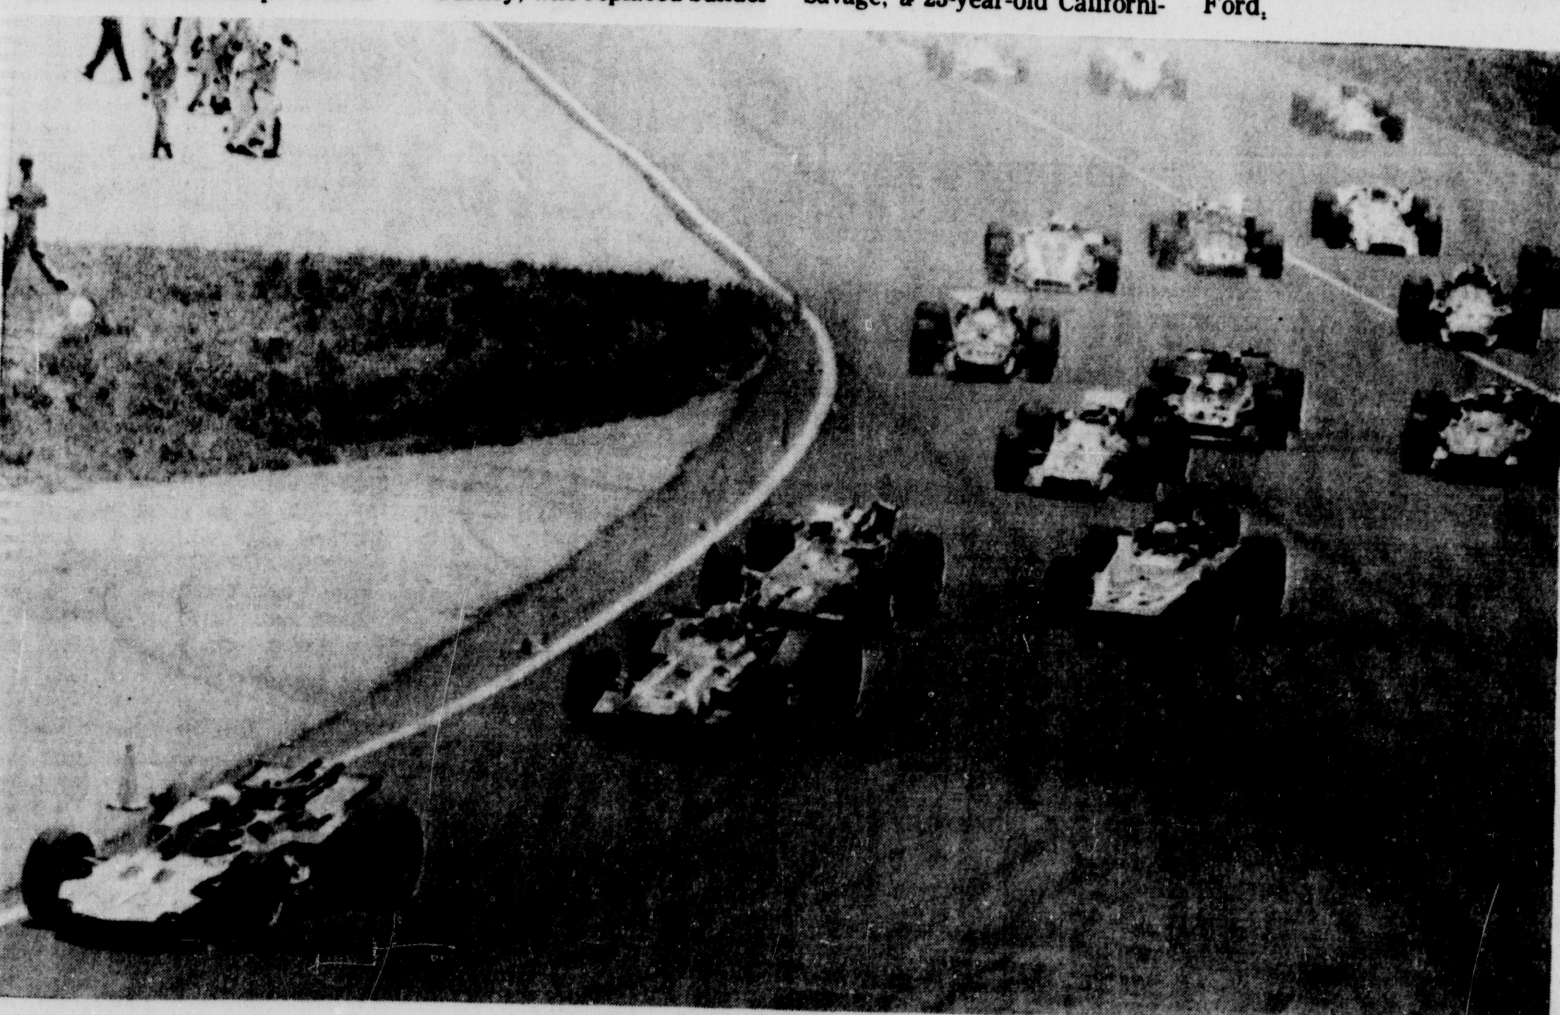

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — A family disagreement over Tom McMillen, highly sought high basketball star from Mansfield, Pa., high school, was settled Sunday night when his parents agreed to his selection of the University of North Carolina for his college career.

After young McMillen signed a letter of intent last Wednesday for Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith, Tom's parents voiced displeasure at his decision. They vowed they would never co-sign the letter of intent which Atlantic Coast Conference officials said was needed to make it legal and binding.

At that time, it was disclosed that the parents favored either the University of Maryland or the University of Virginia, members of the ACC with North Carolina.

McMillen's father, Dr. James J. McMillen, said Sunday night, "Reporters have grossly misinterpreted and exaggerated our reaction to Tom's decision to attend North Carolina. We will accept his decision."

"We are shocked and amazed to read what reporters have inferred in answer to our statement last week. The valid reasons which we mentioned have absolutely nothing to do with violations of the NCAA rules."

Rocky Mountain Start

The 22-car field in the Rocky Mountain 150-mile United States Auto Club race, Sunday near Castle Rock, Colo., rounds the first turn, with Mario Andretti in the lead.

Andretti won the $60,000 race, held at the Continental Divide Raceway. (UPI)

Mrs. Nixon Is Generous With U. S. Peruvian Aid

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Arriving with nine tons of relief goods, Pat Nixon promised American help Sunday night for earthquake-stricken Peru until reconstruction ends "and everything is rosy once again."

The First Lady of the United States was welcomed with a warm, affectionate Latin embrace and kisses on both cheeks by Peru's first lady, Consuelo Gonzalez de Velasco.

"In this embrace and kiss which I give you," said Mrs. Velasco, "is the spirit of all my Peru and of all that which we are suffering in these moments."

The two women, whose husbands are presidents of lands 4,000 miles apart, had never met before. They were brought together by the Western Hemisphere's worst earthquake in this century and by the desire of both their countries to improve strained relations.

OAS Condemns The Kidnaping Of Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States has reached virtual agreement to condemn political kidnappings and call on the Juridical Inter-American Committee to study ways to counter them.

A draft resolution approved Sunday called such kidnappings "common crimes whose gravity converts them into crimes against humanity."

The way was cleared for agreement after Brazil dropped a U.S.-backed proposal to declare political kidnappings and air piracy "a threat to peace and security in the continent."

Such a point might have justified use of armed force under the Rio security treaty.

Mexico, Chile, Colombia, Venezuela, Uruguay and Bolivia had opposed the point.

one is estimated to have taken 50,000 lives.

He said the response from other nations has showed Peru that "we have friends coming from every place in the world" and that this was "not only a Peruvian catastrophe but a human one."

"This disaster is far from over," Carson T. Crocker, the U.S. Embassy's relief coordinator, told Mrs. Nixon. Vitally needed now, he said, is protection from the cold—roofing and clothing for about 100,000 refugees who have nothing but the clothes on their backs.

Shortly after Mrs. Nixon's arrival at the U.S. Embassy residence, U.S. and Peruvian officials showed her before-and-after photos and gave her a 45-minute briefing on the disaster.

They told her of the heroism of helicopter pilots who risked their lives flying rescue missions at high altitudes amid the towering Andes peaks.

U.S. Ambassador Taylor G. Belcher described his own experience at Chacabuco, in the foothills of the Andes, when the quake struck that Sunday afternoon. It seemed like a thousand express trains came through all at once," he said. "The house seemed to be on strings. Cars were jumping on their springs."

The devastation covered an area the size of Belgium. Luxembourg and the Netherlands combined, said Augusto Zimmerman, director of Peru's information office, who estimated it would take $500 million to rebuild the devastated towns and villages.

In the past 30 years, Zimmerman told Mrs. Nixon, there have been a little less than 10,000 deaths in all of Peru's national disasters. But this single

Hatfield Predicts Downfall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mark O. Hatfield says GOP leaders are on a course to the political right that "spells possible disaster for the Republican party."

The Oregon Republican—a leader of his party's liberal wing—indicated Sunday such a move is exemplified by the so-called "Southern strategy" and might win the White House for the GOP in 1972.

But, he added, "When you consider that that type of rightward movement excludes the black people, it excludes the young people, it excludes most of those within the small business groups, perhaps, and labor, and ethnic groups of all kinds; you can't be a national party on that kind of a narrow base, the Southern strategy and the rightward movement represents."

Hatfield spoke on Metromedia Radio's "Profile" program.

If President Nixon cannot make satisfactory progress soon on the Indochina war, unemployment and inflation a "dump-Nixon" movement—led by someone like California Gov. Ronald Reagan—might materialize from the party's right wing and "there just might not be a Nixon-Agnew ticket in 1972."

He said the President's Vietnamization policy was a face-saving device to cover a "no-win policy" of unilateral withdrawal, and said he was somewhat skeptical of Nixon's ability to end the war and heal the economy.

"But hoping that he can, I would have every expectation that Mr. Nixon would be renominated, and based upon the accomplishment of ending the war and restoring the economy, would be easily re-elected."

Still, he said, he is disturbed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's speeches and other things.

"I oppose this. For me this spells possible disaster for the Republican party in the future, beyond 1972."

General Suggests Aid For Lockheed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force general has suggested to Congress that the government share up to half Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s predicted $647 million loss on the C5 cargo jet and loan Lockheed money to cover the rest.

Lt. Gen. Otto J. Glasser, a deputy Air Force chief of staff, denied it is a bailout plan for Lockheed.

"We are in the same boat with them," Glasser told the House defense appropriations subcommittee April 20 in testimony released today. "So we are bailing us out, if that is the word to use."

He said this might be the best and even cheapest way for the Air Force to get the giant transport plane.

Suggesting Lockheed hid its cost problems in 1968 so the Air Force would buy more of the planes, Glasser said the company's management has been "less than satisfactory." His suggested solution includes an Air Force voice in Lockheed's management of the program.

The C5 loss-sharing, loan plan was included in testimony in closed-door hearings on the military's full range of aircraft, missiles, ships, tanks and other hardware procurement requests.

Other highlights: —The Air Force plans to halt its purchases of the controversial F111 swing-wing jet fighter with the 40 requested next year, for a total force of 554 of the planes, Glasser said he is "not completely satisfied" with the F111—he said it is a little heavier and slower than originally planned—but he said it is a good plane and will carry out its mission.

—The Air Force has 10 MIRV-tipped Minuteman III missiles in silos and plans to install 500, apparently by 1975 although the censored transcript left the time schedule unclear.

The MIRVs—multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles—are clusters of three warheads that can be dropped off one by one on enemy targets as the missile flies over them.

Glasser said the $647 million payment-loan plan to give Lockheed the cash flow to keep C5 production going is one of three alternatives being considered by the Pentagon.

Another alternative, he said, is a government loan of all cash flow needs, which he said could backfire and bankrupt Lockheed if it could not repay the loan.

He said the third alternative, on which he gave no details, is to rewrite the C5 contract.

Heroin Cache Confiscated In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The largest cache of drugs believed to have been confiscated in Missouri was seized by police early Sunday after the bodies of a St. Louis man and woman were found in the woman's north side apartment.

Police said the cache included heroin worth an estimated $1.5 million on the black market.

Clemons Wilks, 24, and Barbara Clay, 38, were each shot four times in the head at close range between late Friday and early Sunday, police said.

The cause of the shooting was not known and there was no indication whether police had any clues as to the identity of the assailant or assailants.

Farm Roundup

Official of Government Blasts Farmer Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. David N. Henderson, D-N.C., says that "seldom has bigness been equated so much with badness as in the case of government farm payments" and that this view is being perpetuated by some big national magazines.

"Ironically," Henderson said, "this argument is stressed with increasing frequency by commercial magazines which rank among the very largest of all federal subsidy recipients."

Henderson's remarks are in the current issue of "Agriculture USA" published by a recently formed organization—the National Educational Institute for Agriculture—aimed at informing the general public about farm contributions and problems.

The institute's view is that if more city people and consumers in general understood more about farm problems they would support farm legislation in Congress.

Henderson has led a campaign to look into U.S. postal subsidies for magazines. He has singled out the Reader's Digest since the magazine recently published an article attacking government subsidies to farmers.

"It is an excellent example of the warped yardstick of criticism frequently applied to subsidy recipients," Henderson said of the Digest article.

"Actually," he said, "the same argument is applied with equal validity to recipients of second-class mail subsidies. And if the largest were reduced, or terminated, the Reader's Digest, at $9.4 million, would be among the first affected."

But the point is, he said, that farmers and magazines receive subsidies for performing a necessary public service.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is revising federal quarantine regulations in an effort to slow down the spread of an imported plant pest—the European chafer—from the northeast states.

Officials said the quarantine changes will tighten regulations on shipments of plant and soil materials from heavily infested areas.

The chafer is a major pest of lawns, pastures and small grains, the department said. It was probably brought to the United States during the 1920s,

Hope Growing Dimmer For Argentine Politician

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Pedro Eugenio Aramburu was mysteriously kidnaped a month ago today. Argentines in general have abandoned hope of seeing their ex-president alive.

Aramburu's disappearance has revived old memories and unanswered questions. Many of them bitter issues.

One of the questions, supposedly underlying the kidnaping, concerns the execution of 27 people during the Aramburu administration of 1955-58.

Although 67, the tall and distinguished-looking Aramburu, a retired army general, was believed to be a favorite of the military to replace President Juan Carlos Onganía. Then Aramburu was kidnaped from his home on May 29 by two young men masquerading as army officers. The disappearance undermined what was left of public confidence in Onganía's government, and it toppled June 8.

Aramburu's friends charged that fascists connected with Onganía's government kidnaped the general to remove him from the political scene. Many Argentines believe this, but others believe a conflicting story told by persons claiming to be the kidnapers. They identified themselves as followers of former dictator Juan D. Peron, now living in exile in Spain.

The self-proclaimed kidnapers say they seized and executed Aramburu for his role in the 1956 executions. They claim to be members of a group named for Gen. Juan Jose Valle, leader
